Mansfielder Jailed In Extortion Plot

FORMER CITY EMPLOYE HELD IN 'BLACKMAIL'

Police, Federal Agents Trap Suspect After Probe of Year and a Half.

NOTE DEMANDED $3,000

Chief Tells of 'Pay Off" at Cemetery, Threats Made Of Bodily Harm.

A 50-year-old Mansfield man, a former city employe, was held in city jail today, accused by police and federal agents of sending extortion notes through the mails.

His arrest yesterday climaxed a year and a half of investigation of a blackmail letter sent to a Mansfield business man demanding $3,000 under threat of bodily harm to himself and his family.

Identity of the man being held and the name of the extortion victim was not revealed. The suspect denied any connection with the plot.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates said the names would be made public as soon as charges are filed by federal authorities. Federal agents were on their way to Canton this morning to file a charge before U. S. Commissioner Charles Ball.

It is expected that the suspect will be given a preliminary hearing before Commissioner Ball Monday. He will probably then be taken to Cleveland to await federal grand jury action.

According to Chief Bates the man was taken into custody after police obtained his fingerprints and laboratory procedure revealed them identical to the ones left on the extortion notes.

He said paper and the typewriter used also were traced to the suspect.

The blackmail attempt was first brought to the attention of police on March 18, 1939, when a business man reported receiving a typewritten letter demanding $3,000.

Bates said the note instructed the man to place the money, all in $10 bills, on a certain grave at Mansfield cemetery at midnight the following day.

Federal agents were called, and with police, laid a trap for the extortionist. An officer dressed in the business man's clothes, took his car and drove to the cemetery in his automobile and placed a dummy package on the designated grave, while police lay in wait. The suspect failed to call for the package.

Two days later, the chief said, the business man received another letter, in which he was called vile names and bodily threat to the man and his family was made.

The investigation has been carried on quietly during the past 18 months.

Bates said the suspect is married and has a family.

Lucas Gets Its Wish, Only Doctor To Be Returned

Lucas is going to get its only doctor back after 10 days without a physician in the village.

Residents of the village who had hoped Dr. Paul J. Lee, 35, would flunk his physical examination got their wish. Dr. Lee, who is at Camp Shelby, Miss., did flunk, he informed Mrs. Lee today, and it is expected that he will return home to resume his practice within a week or 10 days.

He listed no reasons for failing to pass the examination at camp, except that "there were too many things wrong" with him.

Dr. Lee said the physician's report must be approved by company officers before he can return home.

Dr. Lee, a reserve officer, was called into service Oct. 23 despite an attempt of Lucas residents to keep him at home by circulating petitions. More than 600 signatures were obtained, but they were disregarded by army officials.

The only physician in Lucas for the past three years, Dr. Lee was married a short time ago and had moved into a new home only two weeks before he was called for military service.

Boy Scouts Get Gift of New Camp

75-Acre Tract Donated By Olsons for All of Appleseed Area.

Scouts of Johnny Appleseed area had a new Boy Scout camp today—thanks to Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Olson, Park avenue west road.

The camp site came as an outright gift from Mr. and Mrs. Olson, who furnished money for the purpose of purchasing 75 acres of land, two and a half miles southwest of Ontario in Springfield township.

According to Floyd F. Dent, chief executive of Johnny Appleseed area, who announced the purchose of the land this morning, the site is ideal for a Boy Scout camp. On the property is a number of large springs, hills and woods.

Dent said that Mr. and Mrs. Olson, who have been interested in scouting for a number of years, offered to buy the land for the scouts last August, after they had seen the crowded conditions existing at Camp Avery Hand this summer.

Dent revealed that scout enrollments had been on the increase during the past few years and at present there were more than 1,300 scouts in the area. The re-routing of Route 42 close to Camp Avery had also proved a detriment to the old camp.

Since August, scout officials have inspected a number of properties within the Richland county area, but it wasn't until recently that they decided on the new camp site.

The camp was given to the scouts on condition that the area develop the property. Plans for building a concrete swimming pool and a log lodge on the camp site were already being considered and work on the projects would begin after Jan. 1, Dent said.

For the first few years the new camp will be used by older scouts, who will aid in developing the property. Camp Avery Hand will be used by younger scouts until the new camp site has been developed sufficiently, Dent said.

Dent also said this morning that scouts and men interested in scouting from Galion, Ashland, Shelby, and other cities in the area would assist in the development of the new property.

Arrangements for purchasing and selecting the camp site were completed by the Johnny Appleseed area Camp committee of which Avery Hand is chairman. Others on the committee are C. I. Kimmel of Mansfield, Jay Whitney of Ashland, J. C. Gay and Roger Godfrey of Galion, and William Parnell, Shelby.

NAMED TO POST

Holmes County Doctor to Be Assistant Health Head.

Dr. W. B. Wild, of Holmesville, Holmes county coroner for the past four years, was named assistant city-county health commissioner today to fill the vacancy created a month ago by the resignation of Dr. Walter L. Merz.

Selected for the position by Dr. Roy C. Rehder, commissioner, Dr. Wild's application is experted to be approved by the board of health at its monthly meeting Monday night. The position pays $2,700 annually.

Dr. Wlid is a graduate of the University of Arkansas. He received his degree in medicine in 1934. He interned at the Arkansas State hospital in Little Rock, Ark., and the Lutheran hospital in Cleveland before entering private practice in Holmesville in September 1936.

The new assistant moved to Mansfield Friday and with his wife will reside at 180 Ausdale avenue. They have no children.

POOR PICKING

Fork Jams in Jail Cell Lock Foiling Escape.

SCOTTS BLUFF, Neb. —(AP)— An escape attempt locked a San Francisco girl more securely behind the bars than ever.

Police Chief James Hedge said Loyce Bodine, 18, tried to pick her cell lock with a fork but the lock jammed and officers couldn't get her out until it was repaired.

Mansfield Man Who Saved 2 From Death Awarded Carnegie Medal

Orra E. Robison Cited as Hero; Pulled Mother, Son From Flames.

Orra E. Robison, 38, of 50 Reba avenue, who risked his life to rescue a mother and her son from a burning automobile last April 27, was one of two Ohioans honored by the Carnegie Hero Fund commission, which awarded him a bronze medal for valor today.

When a News-Journal reporter called Robinson to ask him if he knew of the award, this morning, he had just returned from his mail box with the letter bearing the news still in his hands.

Practically speechless, Robison had difficulty in saying just how he felt about the honor.

"I'm greatly honored, and I would like to know who wouldn't be," he stammered. "I never expected anything from anybody for what I did last April."

Robison, an employe of the Ohio Brass company, saved Gaylord W. and Cora K. Martin of near Adario, from burning to death when they were trapped in their car following an automobile-gasoline truck crash near Shenandoah

The car in which the Martins were riding collided with the rear of the truck and gasoline was sprayed over the hood of the car. The gas caught fire and flames rose 10 feet into the air.

Robison ran to the car, opened the door and pulled Gaylord Martin out. He then got hold of Mrs. Martin and pulled, but she held fast in the wreckage and he was forced to withdraw from the flames twice before managing to rescue her.

Five minutes later several cans of kerosene on the truck exploded. Mrs. Martin sustained serious injuries but recovered. Robison was disabled for four weeks with burns about the hands and face.

ORRA E. ROBISON . . . Awarded Carnegie Medal.

Attention to Robinson's heroic deed was brought to the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission by the Mansfield News-Journal and the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce. Robison's case, after a thorough investigation, was considered at a meeting of

Roosevelt and Willkie Trade Charges on Stirring 'Hatred'

GOP Nominee Hits Tactics of Lenin and Hitler 'Used By FDR'

By THEODORE F. KOOP

ABOARD WILLKIE TRAIN IN NEW JERSEY —(AP)—Wendell L. Willkie declared today that President Roosevelt's Brooklyn speech was designed to "stir up class hatred and divide our people," an aim he described as "the tactic of Lenin, the strategy of Hitler and the preaching of Trotsky."

Saying his opponent "complains that the Republican ticket has the support of many different elements of our population," Willkie continued:

"The answer to that is obvious. It is because our party is today the only one which offers unity to the country x x x."

"In a desperate effort to block this movement of unity, the third term candidate stooped to the use of an alleged quotation which, if made, was discreditable. This quotation is supposed to have come from some one in Philadelphia having no connection with the national Republican ticket."

(Mr. Roosevelt, in his Brooklyn

President Sees 'Something Evil' In 'Dictatorship' Opposition

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

ABOARD ROOSEVELT TRAIN EN ROUTE TO CLEVELAND —(AP)— President Roosevelt pitched into his last full day of campaigning today, contending that "something evil" is happening in America when "organizations which make no secret of their admiration for the dictatorship form of government" distribute "vast quantities of Republican literature."

He rode into up-state New York, on the way to Cleveland for another major political address, after telling a Democratic rally in Brooklyn last night that an "unholy alliance" had been forming within the Republican party between "the extreme reactionary and the extreme radical elements of this country."

Each of those elements, Mr. Roosevelt said, seeks "dictatorial ends," and may bring a threat "to the future of democracy in this country."

"I am very certain," he declared, "that the rank and file of patriotic Republicans do not realize the nature of this threat.

"They should remember, and we must remember, what the collaborative understanding between Communism and Nazism has done

Absentee Ballots 162 Down; Final Rallies Tonight

Despite predictions of a record vote in Richland county next Tuesday, only 706 persons applied for sick and absentee voters' ballots as compared to 868 for the presidential election four years ago, county election board officials said today.

On the political front, Democrats tonight will hear Gov. Bibb Graves of Alabama, and Louis Bromfield, both scheduled to speak at a rally at 8 p. m. at John Simpson Junior high school.

Sample Ballots to Appear Sunday

A PASSER-BY the other day remarked, "There doesn't seem to be any news except war, election and draft."

Those ARE three pretty big news stories in any week, or any year for that matter, and your Sunday edition of The News-Journal will give you complete, interesting, and accurate coverage on all of them.

SPECIFICALLY

You will find samples of the presidential, state, county and judicial ballots along with presentation of local levies and options.

Latest developments in the campaign and in the national defense program will be brought to you clearly.

Also in tomorrow's edition will appear the names and draft registration serial numbers of local men who registered for selective military service outside the county.

INTERESTINGLY

But the Sunday edition brings you more than these three big stories. Under their fanfare, life goes on in Mansfield and surrounding communities without much noise yet with a lot of interest.

And The News-Journal camera and staff of writers take you to visit a school for children who have never had any social contacts.

On tour of the new radio system at Ohio State reformatory;

Out to the new Friendly House outdoor camp which promises to be the most pretentious social service project in the city in many years;

On an informative trip through the local old age pension office.

COMPLETELY

The week-end football round-up, society, suburban news, features for all the family, fiction and colored comics complete the proof that there's really more news than "war, election and draft."

DRAFT BOARDS STILL AWAIT INSTRUCTIONS

Questionnaires Being Sent to Some Draftees, None Received In Mansfield Yet.

BOARDS SET TO FUNCTION

Advisory Members Ready to Assist Registrants as Soon As Blanks Arrive.

Although selective service registrants in a number of states were receiving their questionnaires today, Richland county draft boards were still waiting for instructions from Washington before mailing the first blanks to registrants.

The county's three advisory boards had instructions to begin functioning as soon as the first questionnaires go out. The advisory boards will give registrants information about filling out the blanks and help to clear up questions that arise during the filing of the blanks.

Members of the advisory board for the No. 1 draft district, including wards 1, 2, 3, and 4 in Mansfield, are C. F. Routzan, Henry G. Brunner, and Atty J. V. Will, all of Mansfield.

Comprising the No. 2 board (wards 5 and 6 in Mansfield and all of Madison township) are Tom A. Woodward, Charles Hubbs, and Atty. C. H. Freehafer, all of Mansfield.

Advisers for the rest of the county are Louis Bromfield, near Lucas; Aaron Lockhart, Bellville, and Leland Clever, who lives north of Mansfield.

Questionnaires will go out first to the men whose registration numbers were drawn early in the national lottery. Draft officials said those above the first 1,500 probably would not get their blanks for several weeks.

Those who receive the questionnaire faced the answering of about 52 major questions. It was believed in Washington that every one of the 6,200 local boards throughout the United States would mail out about 50 questionnaires each.

It was believed that the initial quota of 30,000 could be more than filled by classification of the first 35 on the national master lottery list, but 50 questionnaires were being mailed out in most cases to allow plenty of leeway.

National draft officials reiterated also that the first 800,000 men to be conscripted by next June could be obtained by mailing questionnaires to the first 1,500 on the national list, so that all those holding order numbers above 1,500 probably never will be called, at least during the first year.

And by the time the first year is passed, there will be a new crop of 1,300,000 youths who reach 21 every year to add to the 17,000,000 men between the ages of 21 and 36 who are now registered under the draft law.

SCHOOL BLAST

Lives of Cleveland Pupils Saved by Holiday.

CLEVELAND —(UP)— Students and teachers of new Benedictine high school today could thank their observance of a religious holiday for saving them from injury.

Classes had been dismissed to commemorate All Saints day when a boiler in the basement exploded and ripped out a large section of the $250,000 building. Damage was estimated at $15,000.

Brother Martin, 42, maintenance superintendent, who in normal routine would have been in the basement at time of the blast, was praying in the chapel of the old building in observance of the holiday.

AFTER RECORD

Transcontinental Flight For Hughes' Mark Started.

BURBANK, Calif.—(UP)—G. T. Baker, president of National Airlines, Jacksonville, Fla., took off at 3:03 a. m. (PST) today in a Lockheed Lodestar monoplane in an attempt to break the transcontinental transport air record set by Howard Hughes two years ago.

Fascist Troops Halted on Two Fronts In Snow

Duce's Soldiers Find Weather, Enemy, And Mountains Tough Combination; British Bombs Blast Heart of Berlin Again.

(By United Press)

Greece and Great Britain today reported their armed forces battering at both ends of the Axis in intense land and air offensives that carried Greek soldiers into Albania and shook the heart of Berlin with British bomb explosions.

Greek soldiers fighting through snow and rain on a mountainous battlefront were said officially to have halted or slowed down the Italian offensive on both the Florina front in the north and the Janina front in the south.

But of greater importance, it was reported, crack units of six-foot Evzones mountaineers counter-attacked the disorganized Fascist forces in the north and drove three miles into Albanian territory near Karca, thus setting back the Italian thrust toward Florina on the road to the great port of Salonica.

Greek reports said that Greek planes had bombed Italian bases and that the Fascist advance on the southwestern front toward Janina had been making only slow progress at a high cost in casualties.

The Greek successes were regarded as extremely encouraging to the defenders but it was pointed out that the weather had been of great aid to them.

The Fascist high command reported renewal of the drive toward Janina—which appeared to be the chief immediate objective of the entire campaign—and Jugoslav messages said that Italians were at Dobra, only about 11 miles from Janina. The Greeks were said to be retiring from Janina, which appeared likely to fall today.

One Italian column, according to Rome, already has circled beyond Janina on the east and was reported fighting the Greeks in the Pindo mountains while other columns attempted to encircle the town.

The Italian communique also reported widespread aerial activity and left little or no doubt that British troops had landed at the Island of Crete.

Italian airplanes again bombed Salonica today after raids on a score of points in Greece, including the sea and air ports of Athens, killed or wounded about 300 Greeks in the past 24 hours.

Royal Air Force bombers roared over the German capital early in the evening and smashed at railroad centers, arms factories, airdromes and other objectives in many parts of Germany. The Krupp arms works was a principal target of the British bombers.

In retaliation both German and Italian planes renewed attacks on the British Isles, striking from the south coast over a wide area as far as Scotland, where harbors and industrial plants were bombed. German pilots reported direct hits on a Portsmouth power station.

The victorious Greek troops advanced in the direction of the Albanian town of Bitolj.

While this successful attack was underway, other Greek troops staged another counter-offensive further south along the Albanian border.

This attack also was meeting with success, according to official quarters here, who said a violent battle is now raging for possession of a high moun-

CAUGHT: Early Evening Raid Surprises Berlin Residents

BERLIN—(UP)—British planes, in a raid which caught tens of thousands of people in theaters, movies, restaurants and cafes, rained high explosives and incendiary bombs on the Berlin area last night, killing and wounding "a number" of persons, a government communique said today.

In a raid on Amsterdam, it was said, at least 26 persons were killed.

The air raid sirens shrieked in Berlin just when the fashionable west end was crowded with pleasure seekers, and the subways were crowded with those going home.

(Germany no longer permits foreign correspondents to divulge when air raids start or end. However, the United Press dispatch, in speaking of the people caught down town, mentioned that places of amusement now close at 9:30 p. m. This would seem to indicate that the British raid started before then. It was not until 2:40 a. m. today Berlin time (7:40 p. m. Friday EST) that the news of the raid was released.)

As soon as the sirens sounded managers of most theaters appeared on their stages, announced the air raid and asked the audience to go to air raid cellars.

When the "all clear" sounded there was tremendous congestion in buses, subway trains and street cars as people flocked from the "night life" of the west end.

The first half of the raid was marked by the heavy rumbling and crashing of anti-aircraft fire, mostly in other districts. Now and then resounding salvoes from the big guns neared the center of the city rocked the United Press building.

In London the British claimed their bombing planes struck heavy blows not only at Berlin but also central and western Germany during the night and naval quarters hinted at an imminent big scale naval offensive in the eastern Mediterranen in aid of Greece.

(It was indicated strongly that British planes had made raids on Italy for the second straight night. There were two air alarms in Berne, Switzerland. Such alarms in the past have invariably meant a British raid on Italy.

ROUTED: Italians Driven 3 Miles Back Into Albania

(By International News Service)

ATHENS—In a spectacular victory over numerically superior Italian forces, Greek troops have routed the enemy along the Florina road in northern Greece and penetrated more than three miles into Albanian territory, it was officially announced here today.

Fighting fiercely and with utter disregard for the superior numbers of the enemy, the Greek warriors stormed the Italian fortified positions at the point of the bayonet.

The counter-offensive was ordered by the Greek commanders in response to the impatience of the Greek troops over the defensive type of warfare they had been fighting since the Italian invasion started.

The suddenness and ferocity of the Greek attack took the Italians by surprise, according to the official announcement.

With wild yells of contempt for the Italian soldiers, the Greek troops routed them and pushed on into Albania.

Nine Italian officers and 143 Italian soldiers were captured by the Greeks. One hundred pack animals were seized as well as a considerable quantity of equipment.

MOVEMENTS ARE SHOW IN STOCK MART DEALINGS

Plus Signs Predominate In Early Tradings; Store Sales Keep Rising.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Price movements were narrow in today's early stock market dealings but plus signs predominated.

Interpreted as constructive marketwise was the federal reserve board summary estimating department store sales for the nation, in the week ended Oct. 26, exceeded the aggregate in the corresponding period a year ago by 6 per cent. A similar year-to-year increase was shown in the preceding week.

At the same time attention was given a compilation by the commerce department indicating United States exports of iron and steel (scrap excepted) in September were off 7.7 per cent in quantity and 6 per cent in value from August.

BERLIN CAUGHT BY EARLY RAID

Theater Crowds Forced Into Shelters by British Surprise Visit.

Evidence was accumulating that the British navy, "the silent service," was preparing a big Mediterranean offensive.

Newspapers displayed under big headlines reports that British naval officers had arrived at Athens and at unidentified Greek islands to organize Britain's aid to Greece.

Usually well informed London sources talked of secret fleet movements which would soon result in a dramatic blow against Italy.

"Operations by the British fleet which are expected to lead to a large scale offensive against the Italians are now in progress," said the Daily Sketch, quoting well informed naval circles. "Secret moves which for obvious reasons can not be disclosed are being made off Greece."

Axis Raiders Driven Back

LONDON —(U.P.)— One hundred German and Italian planes seeking to break through the British defense barrage to bomb London were driven back in scattered disorder today after a dramatic one hour fight over southeast England.

Witnesses reported seeing at least five Italian Fiat planes power dive to hardly more than 200 feet above the ground to escape British fighter planes which raced into the Axis fleet and, machine guns, spitting, broke it up.

With anti-aircraft guns firing at such of the Axis planes as were not closely engaged by fighters, the British and Axis aviators fought for position in intricate maneuvers until, thwarted, the formations broken and British planes on their tails, the Axis planes fled for the channel.

German planes, reinforced by Italian ones, stepped up the pace of their attack and two air raid alarms were sounded in London during the forenoon. There were morning daylight raids also in the Liverpool area near two northeast English coast towns.

There were three German raids on London during the night but there was little bombing.

Though a limited number of planes took part in the attack, five of them were shot down by anti-aircraft guns—the most successful night for the anti-aircraft gun defense since the war started. Eleven German planes had been shot down yesterday. Seven British planes were lost but pilots of two of them landed safely.

Republican

From An Editorial
Lorain Journal
Feb. 11, 1935

"Joseph Jameson, who retires as postmaster after 12 years, was recognized as one of the most efficient postmasters in the service and conducted the postoffice with as much economy and as conscientiously as if it were his private business. In fact, the chief criticism of him was that he was not sufficiently complacement or tolerant of shortcomings in others to be in public office. "Generally, Jameson was credited with getting more for each dollar of expenditure than the average."

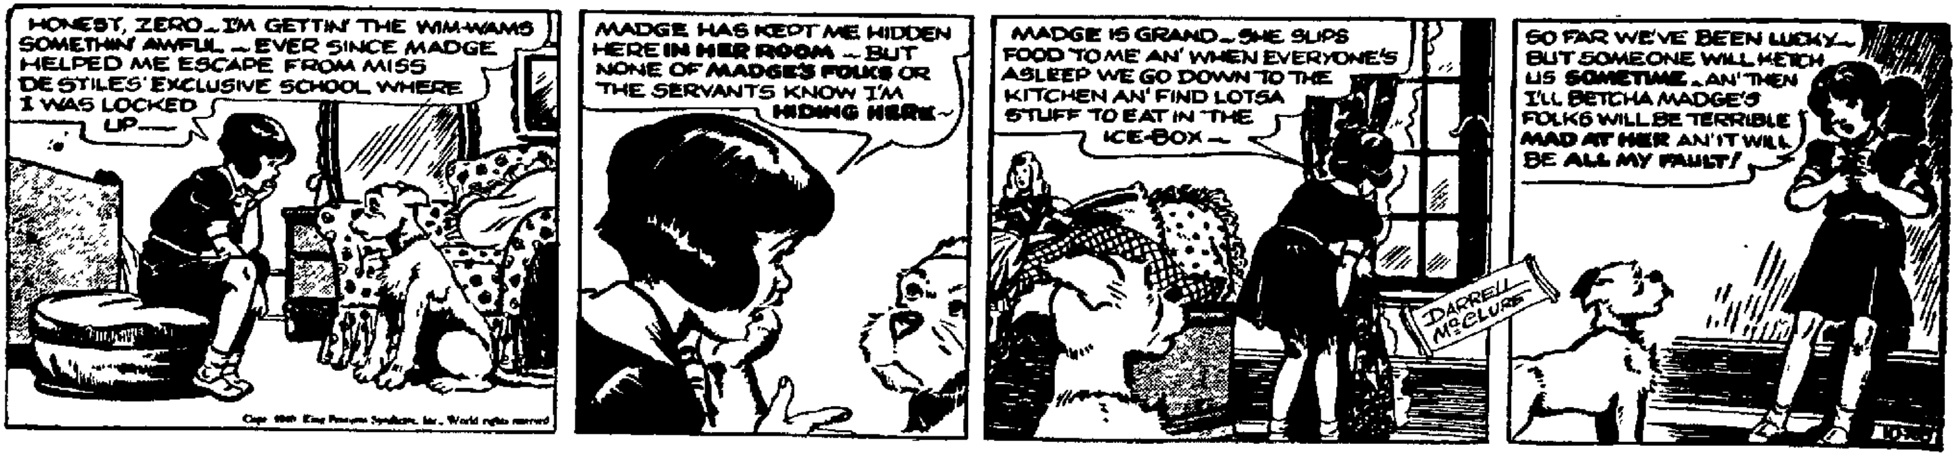
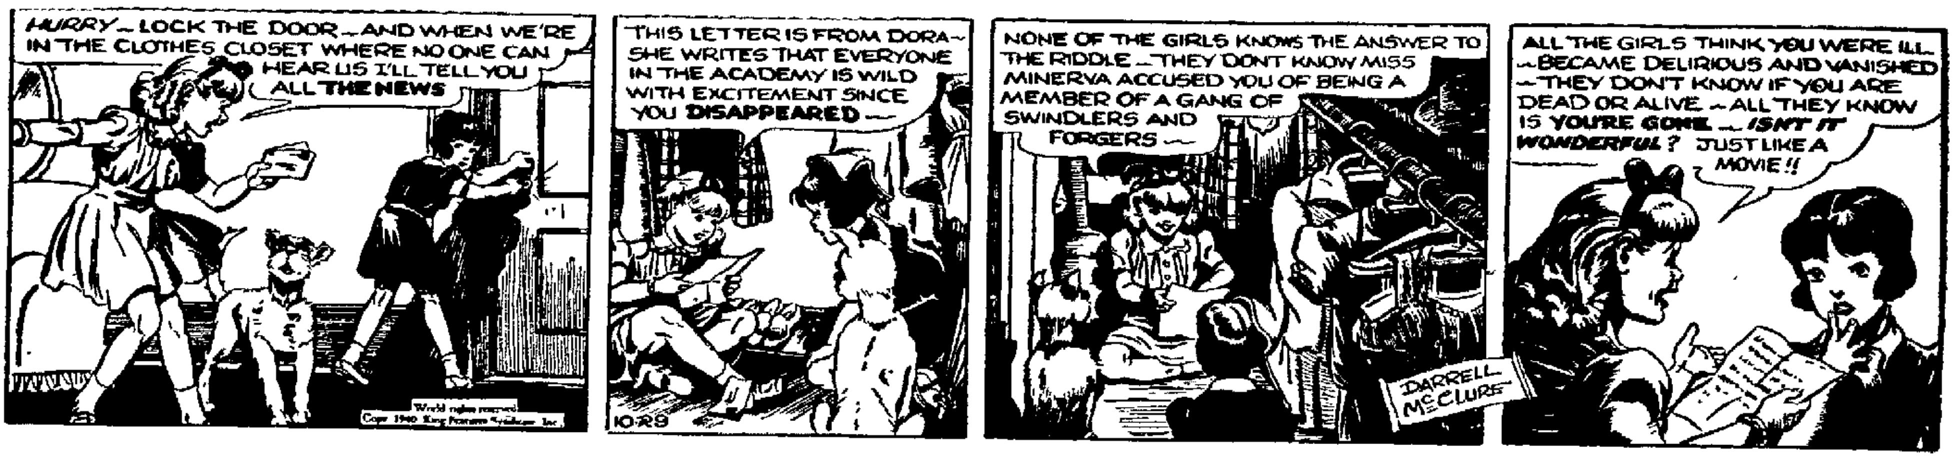
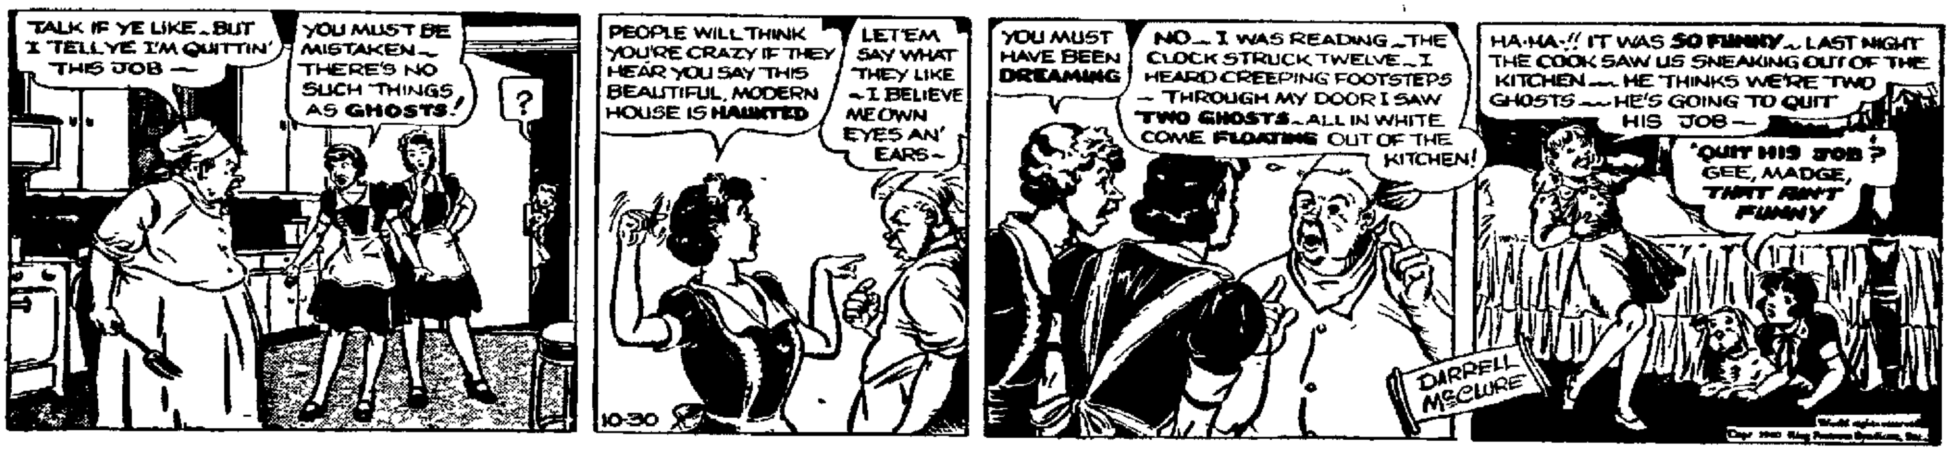
LITTLE ANNIE ROONEY



HONEST, ZERO — I'M GETTIN' THE WIM-WAMS SOMETHIN' AWFUL — EVER SINCE MADGE HELPED ME ESCAPE FROM MISS DE STILES' EXCLUSIVE SCHOOL WHERE I WAS LOCKED UP—
Copr. 1940 King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved
MADGE HAS KEPT ME HIDDEN HERE IN HER ROOM — BUT NONE OF MADGE'S FOLKS OR THE SERVANTS KNOW I'M HIDING HERE—
MADGE IS GRAND — SHE SLIPS FOOD TO ME AN' WHEN EVERYONE'S ASLEEP WE GO DOWN TO THE KITCHEN AN' FIND LOTSA STUFF TO EAT IN THE ICE-BOX —
DARRELL McCLURE
SO FAR WE'VE BEEN LUCKY — BUT SOMEONE WILL KETCH US SOMETIME — AN' THEN I'LL BETCHA MADGE'S FOLKS WILL BE TERRIBLE MAD AT HER AN' IT WILL BE ALL MY FAULT!



HURRY — LOCK THE DOOR — AND WHEN WE'RE IN THE CLOTHES CLOSET WHERE NO ONE CAN HEAR US I'LL TELL YOU ALL THE NEWS
World rights reserved Copr. 1940 King Features Syndicate, Inc.
THIS LETTER IS FROM DORA — SHE WRITES THAT EVERYONE IN THE ACADEMY IS WILD WITH EXCITEMENT SINCE YOU DISAPPEARED —
10-29
NONE OF THE GIRLS KNOWS THE ANSWER TO THE RIDDLE — THEY DON'T KNOW MISS MINERVA ACCUSED YOU OF BEING A MEMBER OF A GANG OF SWINDLERS AND FORGERS —
DARRELL McCLURE
ALL THE GIRLS THINK YOU WERE ILL — BECAME DELIRIOUS AND VANISHED — THEY DON'T KNOW IF YOU ARE DEAD OR ALIVE — ALL THEY KNOW IS YOU'RE GONE — ISN'T IT WONDERFUL? JUST LIKE A MOVIE!!



TALK IF YE LIKE — BUT I TELL YE I'M QUITTIN' THIS JOB — YOU MUST BE MISTAKEN — THERE'S NO SUCH THINGS AS GHOSTS!
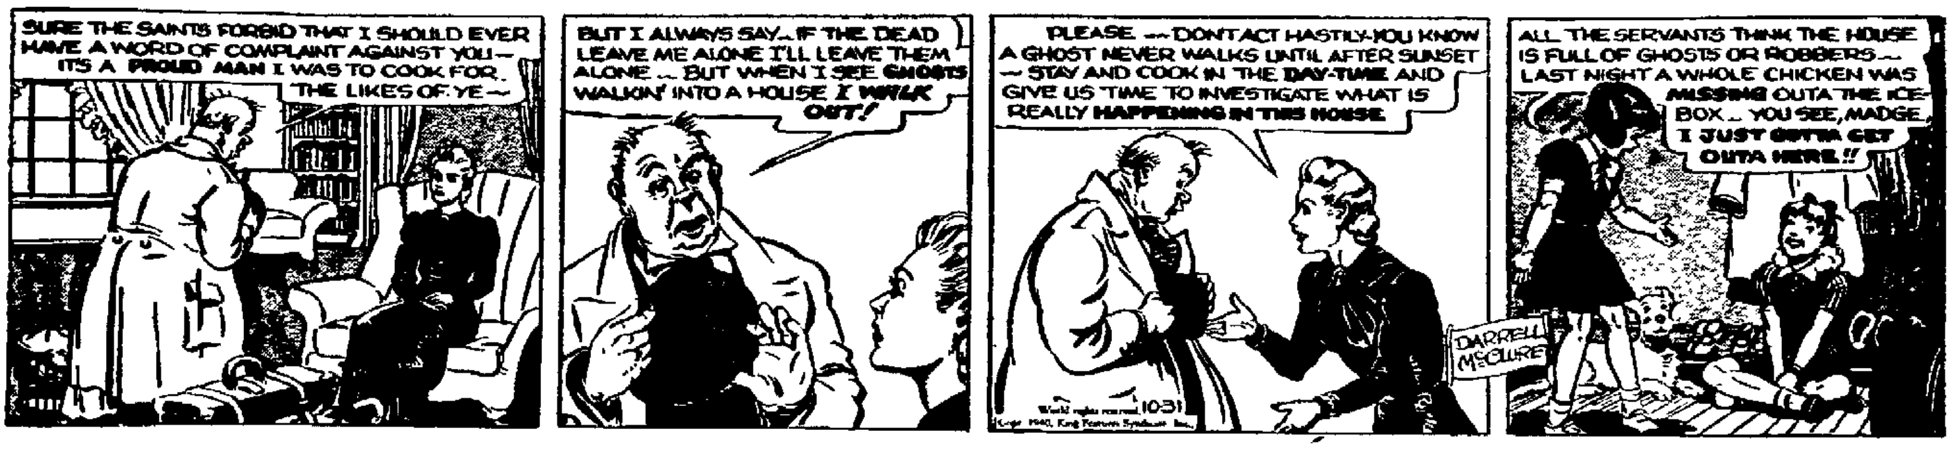
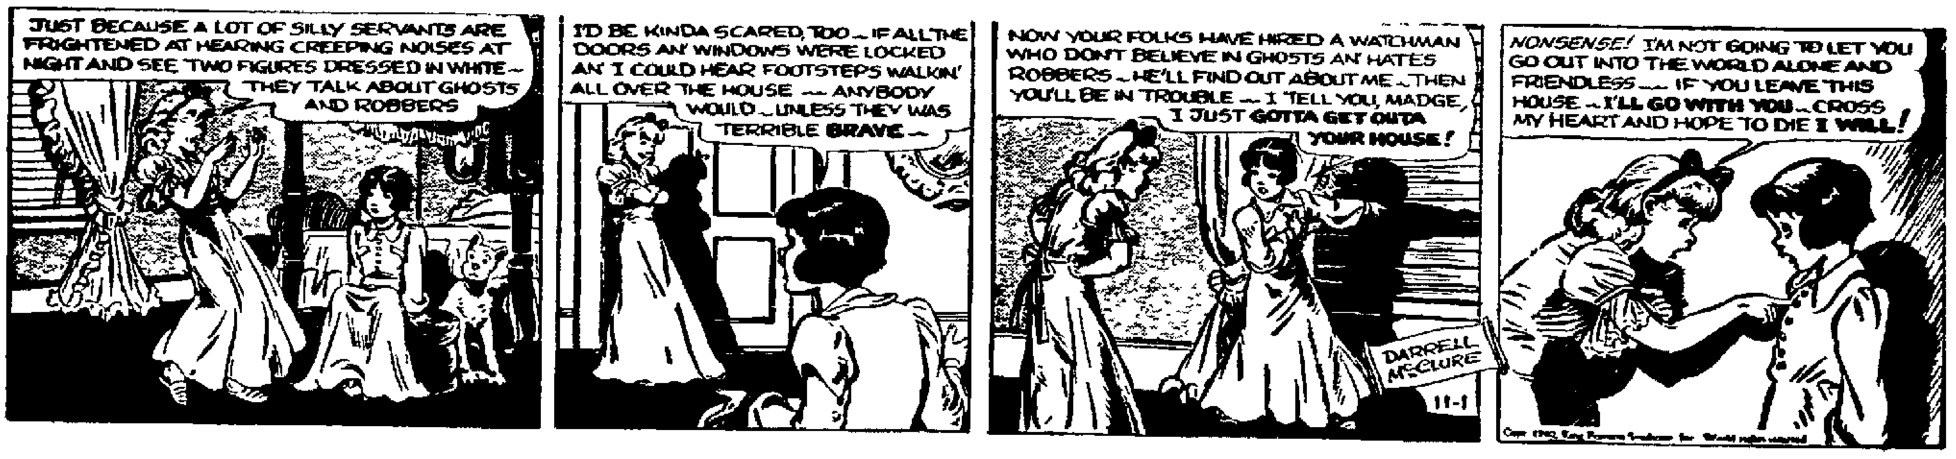
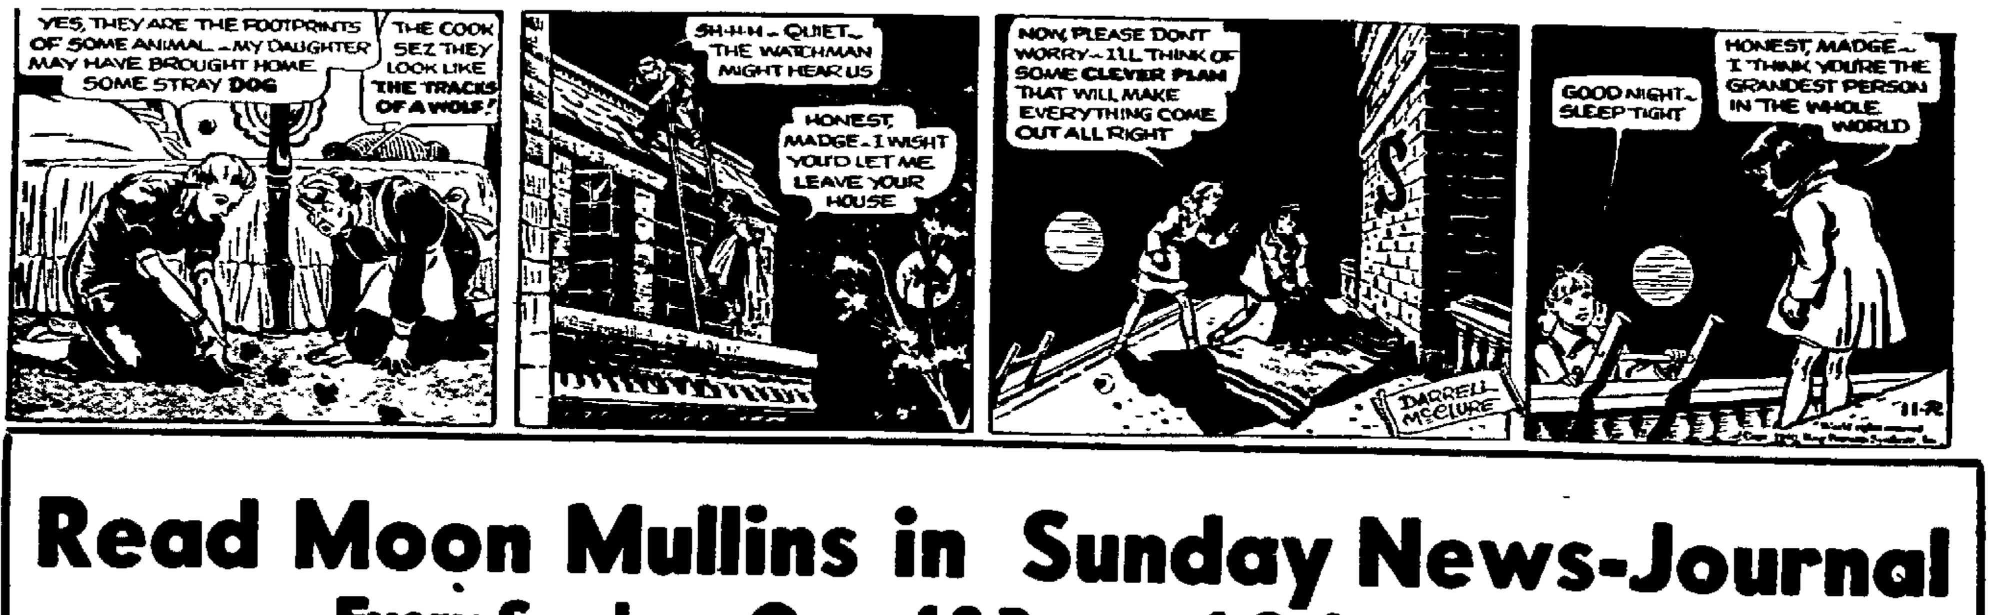
PEOPLE WILL THINK YOU'RE CRAZY IF THEY HEAR YOU SAY THIS BEAUTIFUL, MODERN HOUSE IS HAUNTED
LET 'EM SAY WHAT THEY LIKE — I BELIEVE ME OWN EYES AN' EARS—
10-30
YOU MUST HAVE BEEN DREAMING
NO — I WAS READING — THE CLOCK STRUCK TWELVE — I HEARD CREEPING FOOTSTEPS — THROUGH MY DOOR I SAW TWO GHOSTS — ALL IN WHITE COME FLOATING OUT OF THE KITCHEN!
DARRELL McCLURE
HA-HA-!! IT WAS SO FUNNY — LAST NIGHT THE COOK SAW US SNEAKING OUT OF THE KITCHEN — HE THINKS WE'RE TWO GHOSTS — HE'S GOING TO QUIT HIS JOB —
'QUIT HIS JOB'? GEE, MADGE, THAT AIN'T FUNNY
World rights reserved Copr. 1940 King Features Syndicate, Inc.



SURE THE SAINTS FORBID THAT I SHOULD EVER HAVE A WORD OF COMPLAINT AGAINST YOU — IT'S A PROUD MAN I WAS TO COOK FOR THE LIKES OF YE —
BUT I ALWAYS SAY — IF THE DEAD LEAVE ME ALONE I'LL LEAVE THEM ALONE — BUT WHEN I SEE GHOSTS WALKIN' INTO A HOUSE I WALK OUT!
PLEASE — DON'T ACT HASTILY — YOU KNOW A GHOST NEVER WALKS UNTIL AFTER SUNSET — STAY AND COOK IN THE DAY-TIME AND GIVE US TIME TO INVESTIGATE WHAT IS REALLY HAPPENING IN THIS HOUSE
World rights reserved 10-31 Copr. 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc.
DARRELL McCLURE
ALL THE SERVANTS THINK THE HOUSE IS FULL OF GHOSTS OR ROBBERS — LAST NIGHT A WHOLE CHICKEN WAS MISSING OUTA THE ICE-BOX — YOU SEE, MADGE, I JUST GOTTA GET OUTA HERE!!



JUST BECAUSE A LOT OF SILLY SERVANTS ARE FRIGHTENED AT HEARING CREEPING NOISES AT NIGHT AND SEE TWO FIGURES DRESSED IN WHITE — THEY TALK ABOUT GHOSTS AND ROBBERS
I'D BE KINDA SCARED, TOO — IF ALL THE DOORS AN' WINDOWS WERE LOCKED AN' I COULD HEAR FOOTSTEPS WALKIN' ALL OVER THE HOUSE — ANYBODY WOULD — UNLESS THEY WAS TERRIBLE BRAVE —
NOW YOUR FOLKS HAVE HIRED A WATCHMAN WHO DON'T BELIEVE IN GHOSTS AN' HATES ROBBERS — HE'LL FIND OUT ABOUT ME — THEN YOU'LL BE IN TROUBLE — I TELL YOU, MADGE, I JUST GOTTA GET OUTA YOUR HOUSE!
DARRELL McCLURE
11-1
NONSENSE! I'M NOT GOING TO LET YOU GO OUT INTO THE WORLD ALONE AND FRIENDLESS — IF YOU LEAVE THIS HOUSE — I'LL GO WITH YOU — CROSS MY HEART AND HOPE TO DIE I WILL!
Copr. 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc. World rights reserved



YES, THEY ARE THE FOOTPRINTS OF SOME ANIMAL — MY DAUGHTER MAY HAVE BROUGHT HOME SOME STRAY DOG
THE COOK SEZ THEY LOOK LIKE THE TRACKS OF A WOLF!
SH-H-H — QUIET — THE WATCHMAN MIGHT HEAR US
HONEST, MADGE — I WISHT YOU'D LET ME LEAVE YOUR HOUSE
NOW, PLEASE DON'T WORRY — I'LL THINK OF SOME CLEVER PLAN THAT WILL MAKE EVERYTHING COME OUT ALL RIGHT
DARRELL McCLURE
GOOD NIGHT — SLEEP TIGHT
HONEST, MADGE — I THINK YOU'RE THE GRANDEST PERSON IN THE WHOLE WORLD

INSPECTOR WADE

A MURDER IN MY THEATRE! TERRIBLE!
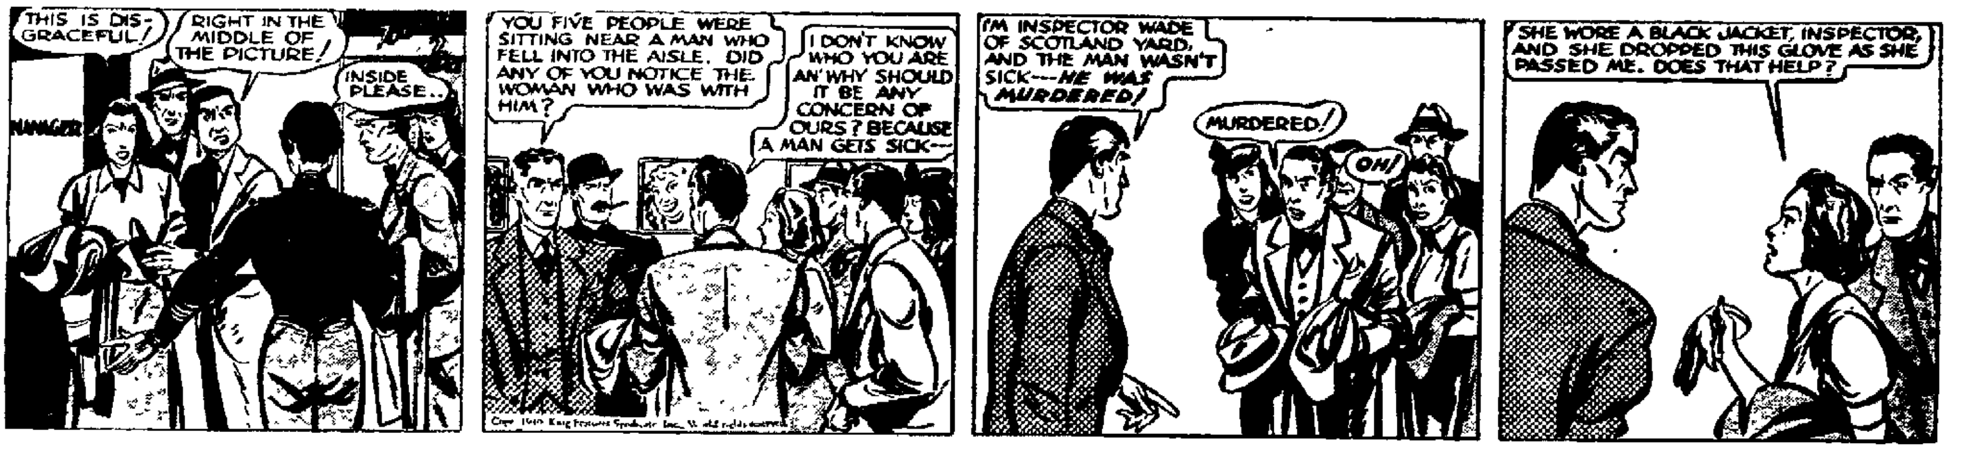
WITH A HATPIN AS THE MURDER WEAPON! GET THE USHER IN HERE!
10-28
YES, SIR, THERE WAS A LADY WITH HIM. SHE LEFT.
GOT ANY IDEA WHAT SHE LOOKED LIKE?
Copr. 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved
SHE WAS GOOD-LOOKING AND... WHEN I HEARD THEM TALKING, THE MAN SAID SOMETHING ABOUT... THE DOUBLE!
THE DOUBLE!..NOW WE'RE GETTING SOMEPLACE! HOW WAS SHE DRESSED?
GOSH, INSPECTOR--- I DIDN'T NOTICE!



THIS IS DISGRACEFUL!
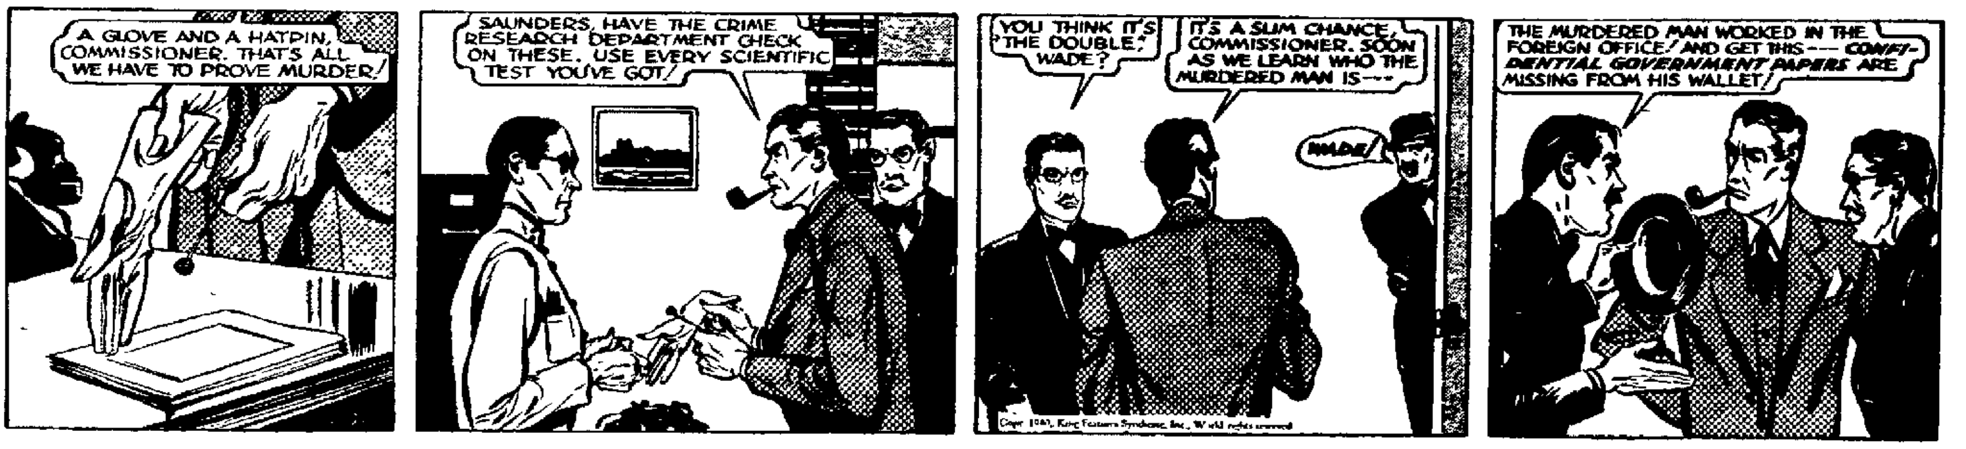
INSIDE PLEASE..
MANAGER
YOU FIVE PEOPLE WERE SITTING NEAR A MAN WHO FELL INTO THE AISLE. DID ANY OF YOU NOTICE THE WOMAN WHO WAS WITH HIM?
I DON'T KNOW WHO YOU ARE AN' WHY SHOULD IT BE ANY CONCERN OF OURS? BECAUSE A MAN GETS SICK---
Copr. 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved
I'M INSPECTOR WADE OF SCOTLAND YARD, AND THE MAN WASN'T SICK---HE WAS MURDERED!
MURDERED!
OH!
SHE WORE A BLACK JACKET, INSPECTOR, AND SHE DROPPED THIS GLOVE AS SHE PASSED ME. DOES THAT HELP?



A GLOVE AND A HATPIN, COMMISSIONER. THAT'S ALL WE HAVE TO PROVE MURDER!
SAUNDERS, HAVE THE CRIME RESEARCH DEPARTMENT CHECK ON THESE. USE EVERY SCIENTIFIC TEST YOU'VE GOT!
YOU THINK IT'S "THE DOUBLE," WADE?
IT'S A SLIM CHANCE, COMMISSIONER. SOON AS WE LEARN WHO THE MURDERED MAN IS--- WADE!
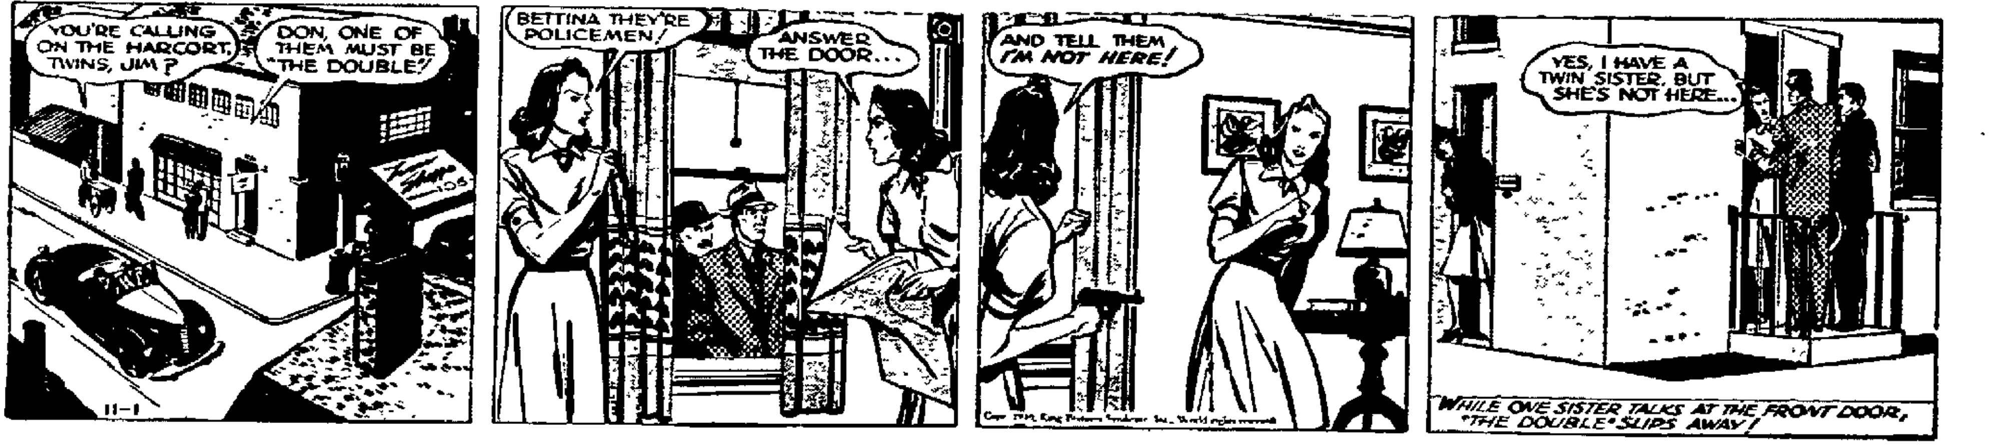
Copr. 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved
THE MURDERED MAN WORKED IN THE FOREIGN OFFICE! AND GET THIS--- CONFIDENTIAL GOVERNMENT PAPERS ARE MISSING FROM HIS WALLET!

WE CHECKED ON THIS HATPIN, INSPECTOR. WE GOT A COMPLETE LIST OF SALES MADE OF THIS TYPE.....
WHAT ABOUT THE GLOVES, SAUNDERS?
WE DID THE SAME WITH THE GLOVES... A COMPLETE LIST...
WHERE IN BLAZES DOES THAT GET US? WE CAN'T CHECK THOUSANDS OF NAMES!
10-31
RIGHT, DONAVAN... BUT NOT MANY BOUGHT BOTH THESE ARTICLES. THAT NARROWS IT DOWN TO THIS LIST... AND, INSPECTOR, IF YOUR HUNCH ABOUT THE DOUBLE IS CORRECT, TAKE A LOOK!
Copr. 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved
TWINS!
BETTINA HARCORT
BETTE HARCORT



YOU'RE CALLING ON THE HARCORT TWINS, JIM?
DON, ONE OF THEM MUST BE "THE DOUBLE"!
11-1
BETTINA THEY'RE POLICEMEN!
ANSWER THE DOOR...
AND TELL THEM I'M NOT HERE!
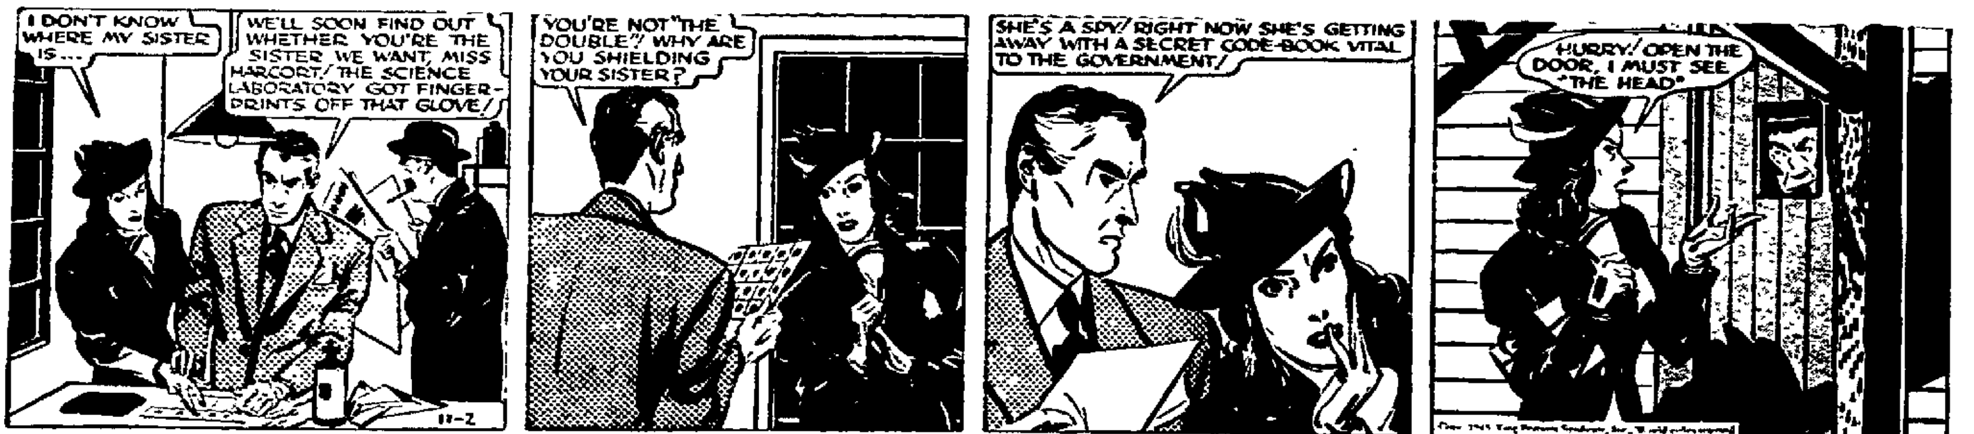
Copr. 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved
YES, I HAVE A TWIN SISTER. BUT SHE'S NOT HERE...
WHILE ONE SISTER TALKS AT THE FRONT DOOR, "THE DOUBLE" SLIPS AWAY!



I DON'T KNOW WHERE MY SISTER IS...
WE'LL SOON FIND OUT WHETHER YOU'RE THE SISTER WE WANT, MISS HARCORT! THE SCIENCE LABORATORY GOT FINGERPRINTS OFF THAT GLOVE!
11-2
YOU'RE NOT "THE DOUBLE"? WHY ARE YOU SHIELDING YOUR SISTER?
SHE'S A SPY! RIGHT NOW SHE'S GETTING AWAY WITH A SECRET CODE-BOOK VITAL TO THE GOVERNMENT!
HURRY! OPEN THE DOOR, I MUST SEE "THE HEAD"
Copr. 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved

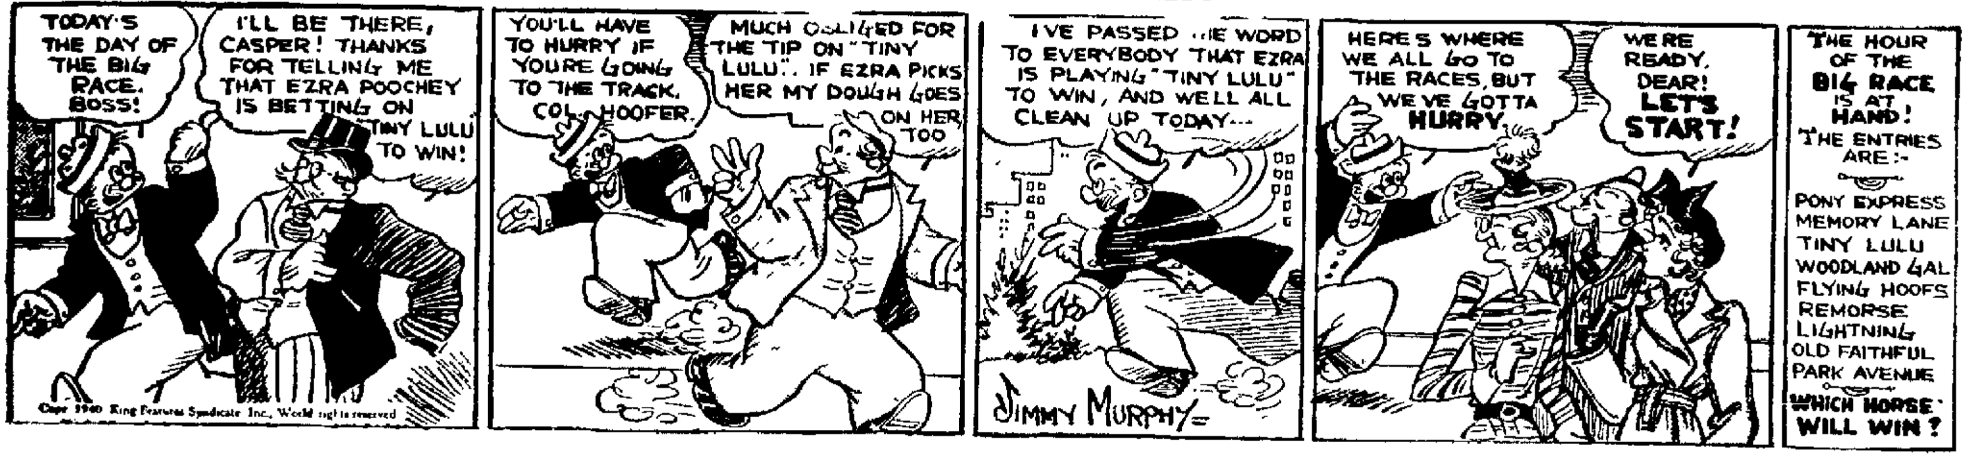
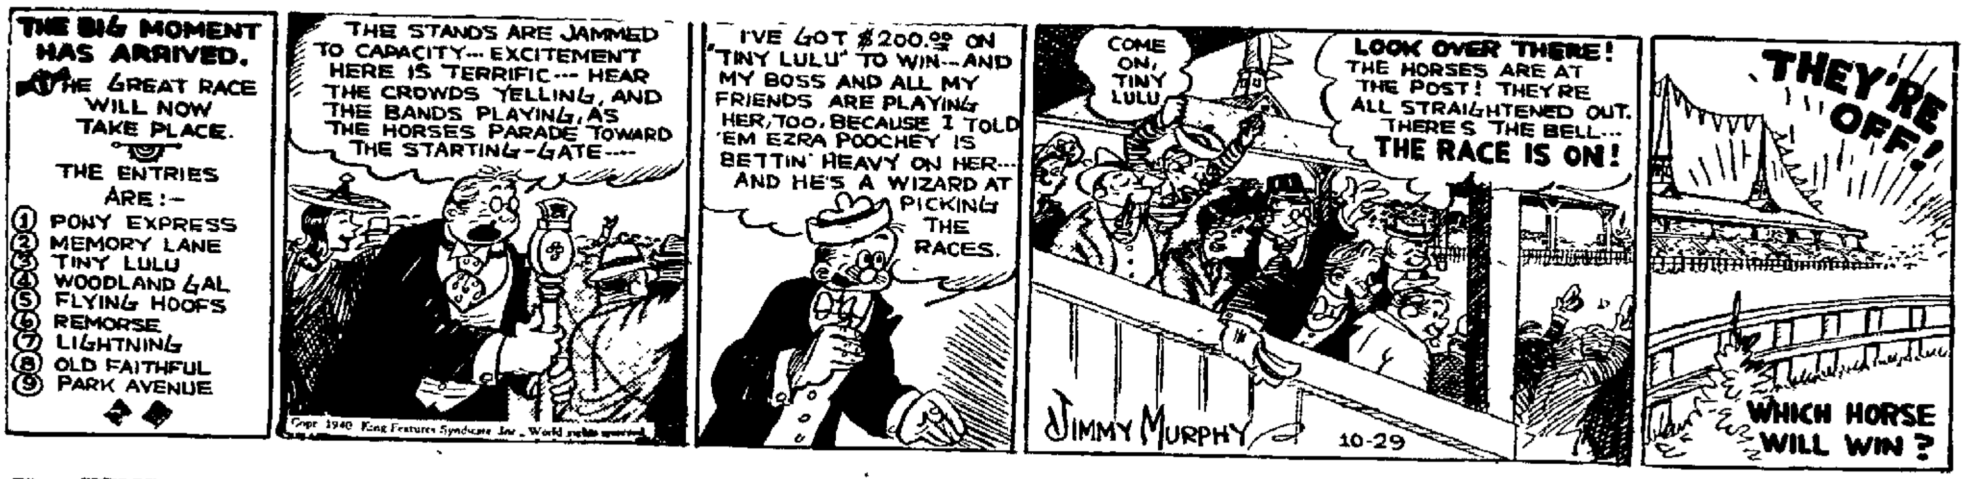
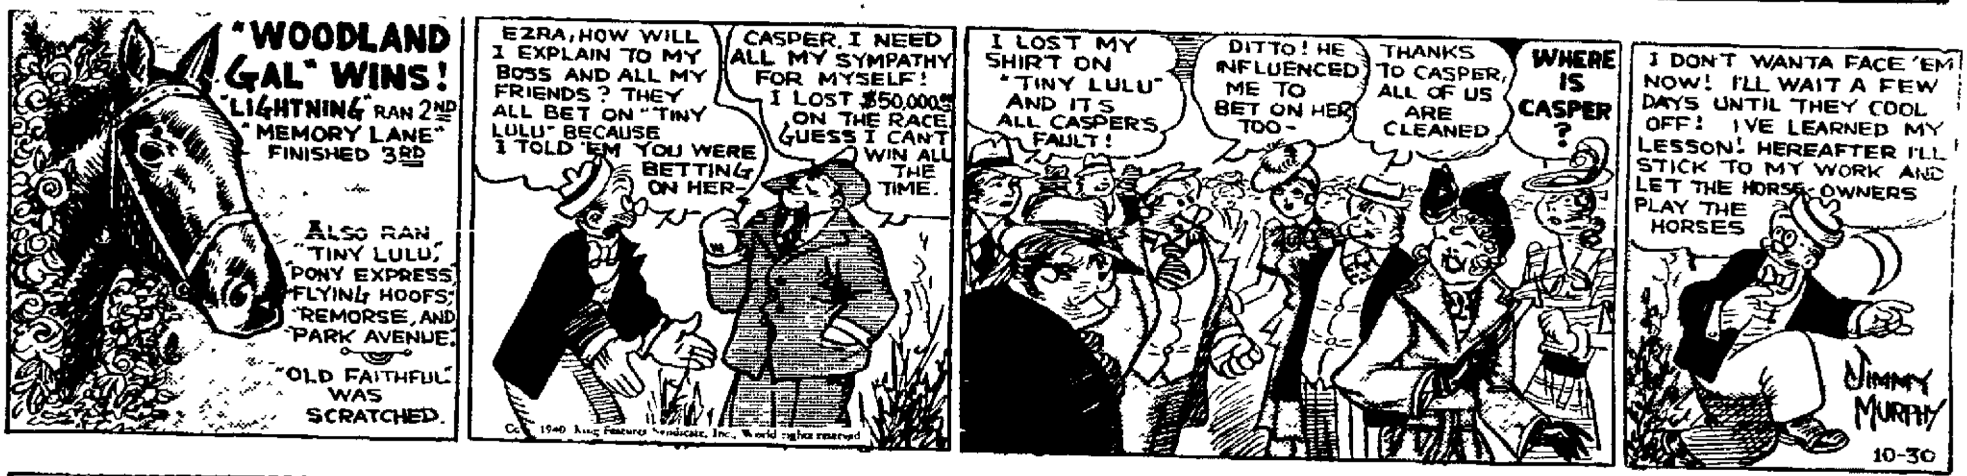
TOOTS AND CASPER



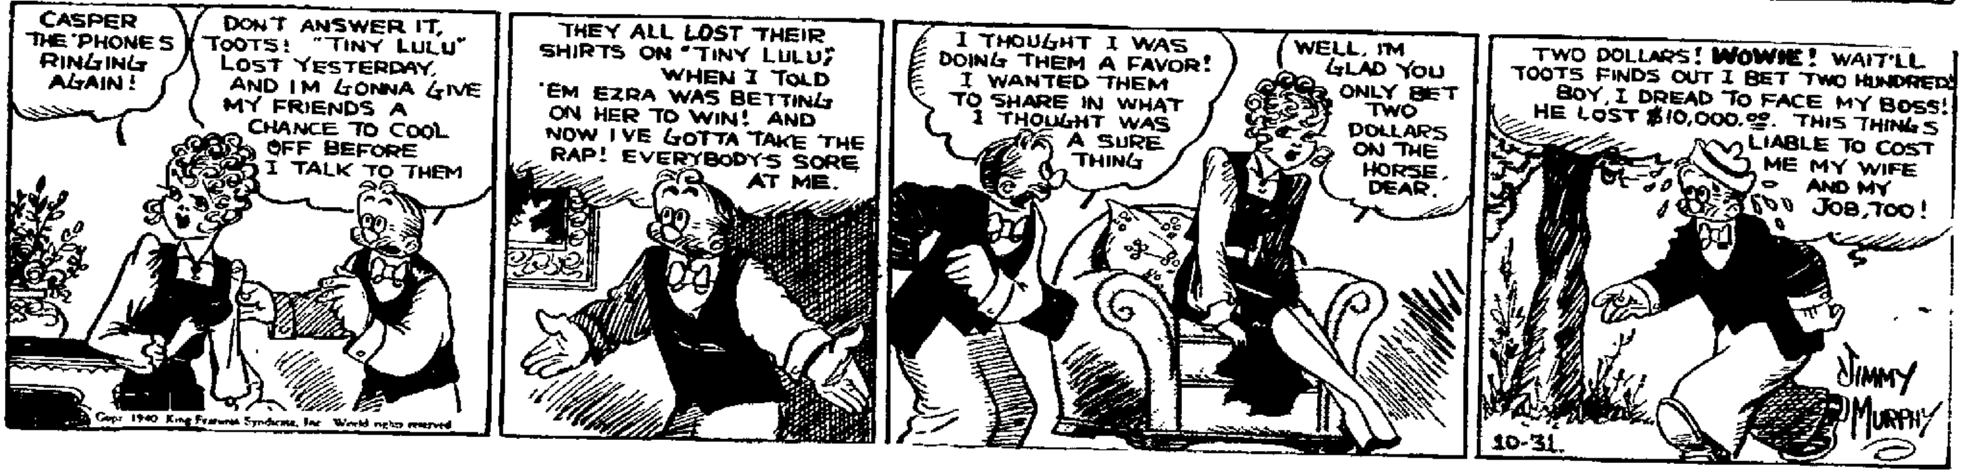
TODAY'S THE DAY OF THE BIG RACE, BOSS!
I'LL BE THERE, CASPER! THANKS FOR TELLING ME THAT EZRA POOCHEY IS BETTING ON TINY LULU TO WIN!
Copr 1940 King Features Syndicate Inc., World rights reserved
YOU'LL HAVE TO HURRY IF YOU'RE GOING TO THE TRACK, COL. HOOFER.
MUCH OBLIGED FOR THE TIP ON "TINY LULU". IF EZRA PICKS HER MY DOUGH GOES ON HER TOO
I'VE PASSED THE WORD TO EVERYBODY THAT EZRA IS PLAYING "TINY LULU" TO WIN, AND WE'LL ALL CLEAN UP TODAY---
JIMMY MURPHY
HERE'S WHERE WE ALL GO TO THE RACES, BUT WE'VE GOTTA HURRY.
WE'RE READY, DEAR! LET'S START!
THE HOUR OF THE BIG RACE IS AT HAND! THE ENTRIES ARE:-
PONY EXPRESS
MEMORY LANE
TINY LULU
WOODLAND GAL
FLYING HOOFS
REMORSE
LIGHTNING
OLD FAITHFUL
PARK AVENUE
WHICH HORSE WILL WIN?



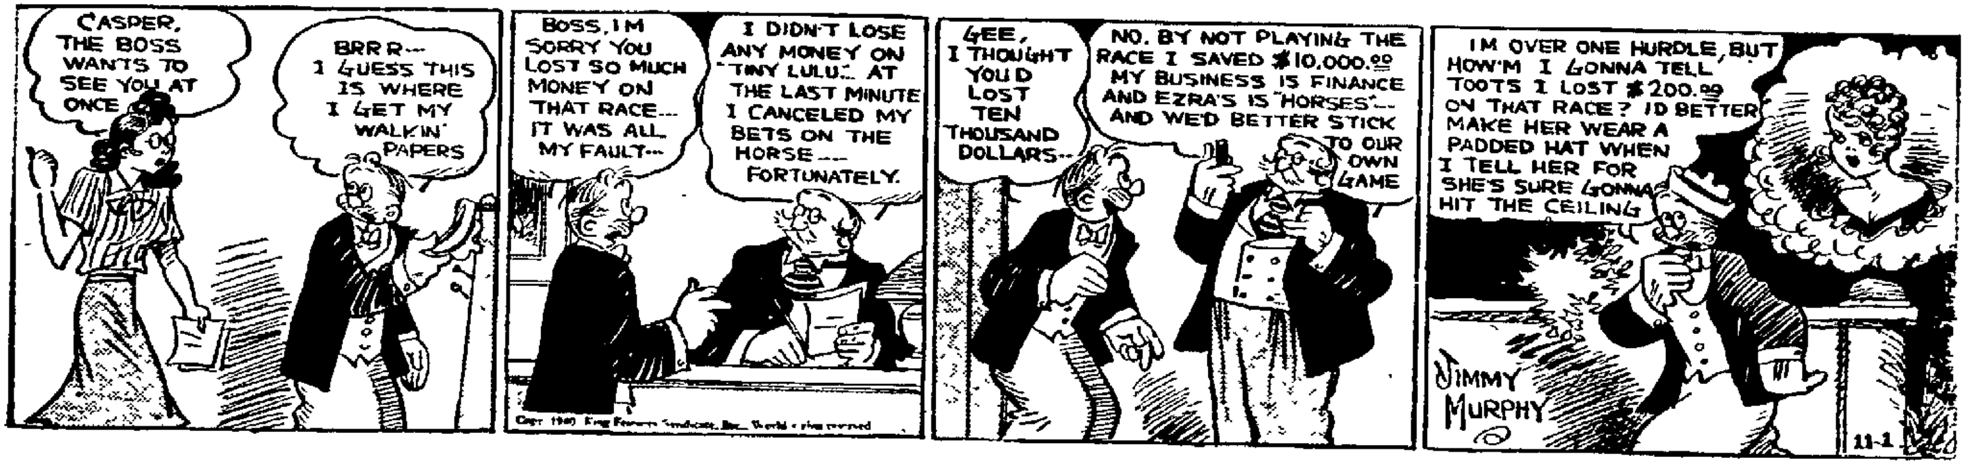
THE BIG MOMENT HAS ARRIVED. THE GREAT RACE WILL NOW TAKE PLACE.
THE ENTRIES ARE:-
① PONY EXPRESS
② MEMORY LANE
③ TINY LULU
④ WOODLAND GAL
⑤ FLYING HOOFS
⑥ REMORSE
⑦ LIGHTNING
⑧ OLD FAITHFUL
⑨ PARK AVENUE
THE STANDS ARE JAMMED TO CAPACITY--- EXCITEMENT HERE IS TERRIFIC--- HEAR THE CROWDS YELLING, AND THE BANDS PLAYING, AS THE HORSES PARADE TOWARD THE STARTING-GATE----
Copr 1940 King Features Syndicate Inc., World rights reserved
I'VE GOT $200.00 ON "TINY LULU" TO WIN--AND MY BOSS AND ALL MY FRIENDS ARE PLAYING HER, TOO, BECAUSE I TOLD 'EM EZRA POOCHEY IS BETTIN' HEAVY ON HER--- AND HE'S A WIZARD AT PICKING THE RACES.
COME ON, TINY LULU
LOOK OVER THERE! THE HORSES ARE AT THE POST! THEY'RE ALL STRAIGHTENED OUT. THERE'S THE BELL--- THE RACE IS ON!
JIMMY MURPHY
10-29
THEY'RE OFF!
WHICH HORSE WILL WIN?



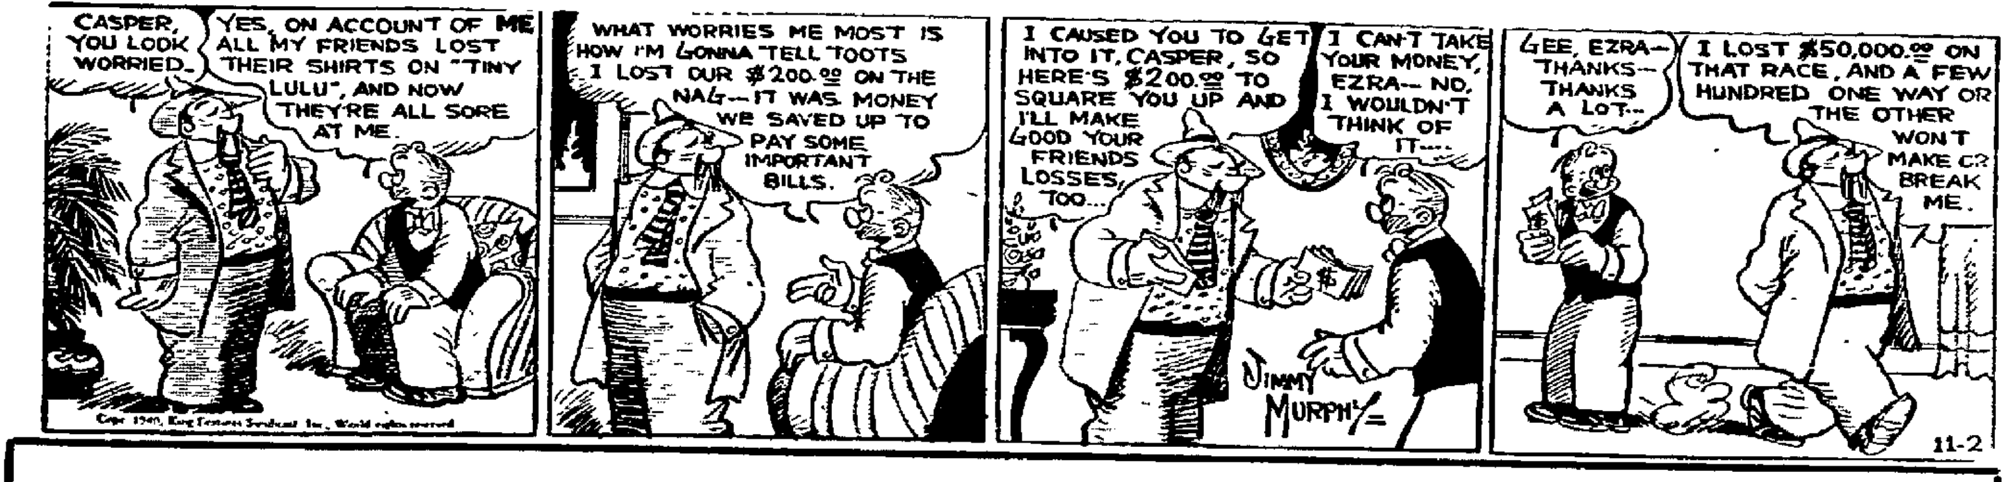
"WOODLAND GAL" WINS! "LIGHTNING" RAN 2ND "MEMORY LANE" FINISHED 3RD
ALSO RAN "TINY LULU," "PONY EXPRESS," "FLYING HOOFS," "REMORSE, AND "PARK AVENUE."
"OLD FAITHFUL" WAS SCRATCHED.
EZRA, HOW WILL I EXPLAIN TO MY BOSS AND ALL MY FRIENDS? THEY ALL BET ON "TINY LULU" BECAUSE I TOLD 'EM YOU WERE BETTING ON HER-
CASPER, I NEED ALL MY SYMPATHY FOR MYSELF! I LOST $50,000.00 ON THE RACE. GUESS I CAN'T WIN ALL THE TIME.
Copr 1940 King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved
I LOST MY SHIRT ON "TINY LULU" AND IT'S ALL CASPER'S FAULT!
DITTO! HE INFLUENCED ME TO BET ON HER TOO-
THANKS TO CASPER, ALL OF US ARE CLEANED
WHERE IS CASPER?
I DON'T WANTA FACE 'EM NOW! I'LL WAIT A FEW DAYS UNTIL THEY COOL OFF! I'VE LEARNED MY LESSON! HEREAFTER I'LL STICK TO MY WORK AND LET THE HORSE-OWNERS PLAY THE HORSES
JIMMY MURPHY
10-30



CASPER THE PHONE'S RINGING AGAIN!
DON'T ANSWER IT, TOOTS! "TINY LULU" LOST YESTERDAY, AND I'M GONNA GIVE MY FRIENDS A CHANCE TO COOL OFF BEFORE I TALK TO THEM
Copr 1940 King Features Syndicate, Inc. World rights reserved
THEY ALL LOST THEIR SHIRTS ON "TINY LULU," WHEN I TOLD 'EM EZRA WAS BETTING ON HER TO WIN! AND NOW I'VE GOTTA TAKE THE RAP! EVERYBODY'S SORE AT ME.
I THOUGHT I WAS DOING THEM A FAVOR! I WANTED THEM TO SHARE IN WHAT I THOUGHT WAS A SURE THING
WELL, I'M GLAD YOU ONLY BET TWO DOLLARS ON THE HORSE, DEAR.
TWO DOLLARS! WOWIE! WAIT'LL TOOTS FINDS OUT I BET TWO HUNDRED! BOY, I DREAD TO FACE MY BOSS! HE LOST $10,000.00. THIS THING'S LIABLE TO COST ME MY WIFE AND MY JOB, TOO!
JIMMY MURPHY
10-31.



CASPER, THE BOSS WANTS TO SEE YOU AT ONCE
BRR R--- I GUESS THIS IS WHERE I GET MY WALKIN' PAPERS
BOSS, I'M SORRY YOU LOST SO MUCH MONEY ON THAT RACE--- IT WAS ALL MY FAULT---
I DIDN'T LOSE ANY MONEY ON "TINY LULU"... AT THE LAST MINUTE I CANCELED MY BETS ON THE HORSE--- FORTUNATELY.
Copr 1940 King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved
GEE, I THOUGHT YOU'D LOST TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS---
NO. BY NOT PLAYING THE RACE I SAVED $10,000.00 MY BUSINESS IS FINANCE AND EZRA'S IS "HORSES"--- AND WE'D BETTER STICK TO OUR OWN GAME
I'M OVER ONE HURDLE, BUT HOW'M I GONNA TELL TOOTS I LOST $200.00 ON THAT RACE? I'D BETTER MAKE HER WEAR A PADDED HAT WHEN I TELL HER FOR SHE'S SURE GONNA HIT THE CEILING
JIMMY MURPHY
11-1

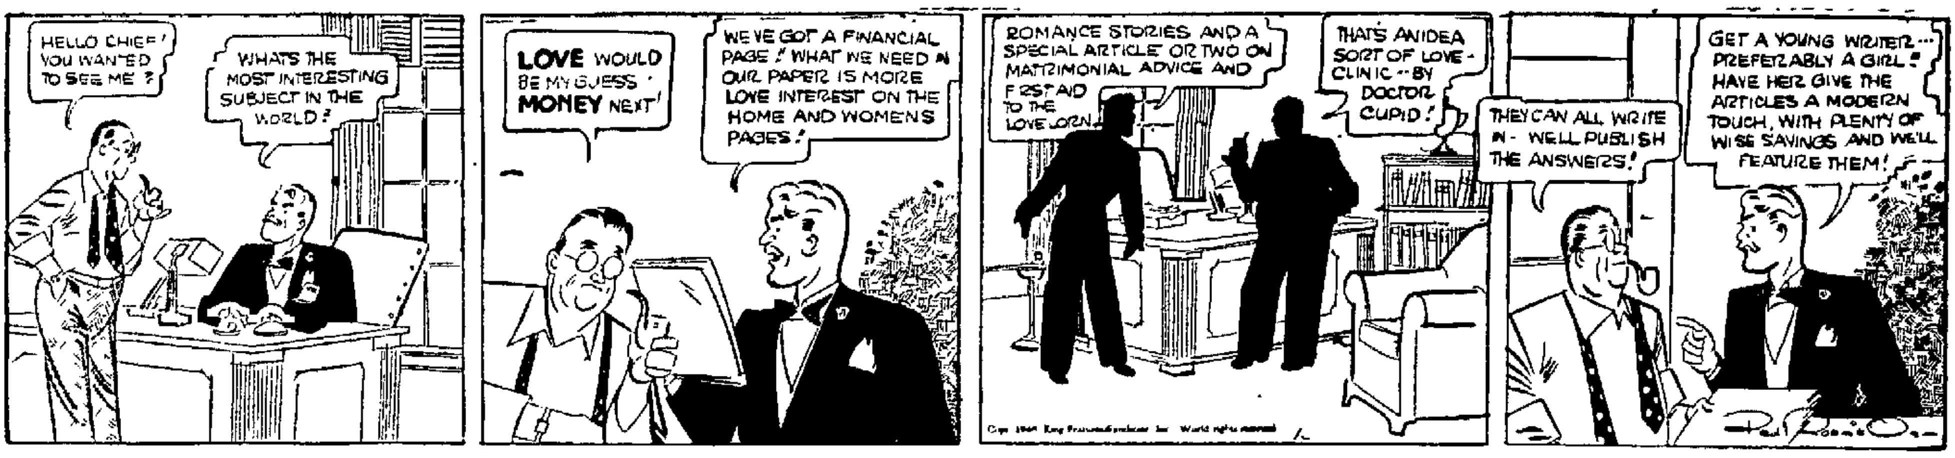


CASPER, YOU LOOK WORRIED.
YES, ON ACCOUNT OF ME ALL MY FRIENDS LOST THEIR SHIRTS ON "TINY LULU", AND NOW THEY'RE ALL SORE AT ME.
Copr 1940, King Features Syndicate Inc., World rights reserved
WHAT WORRIES ME MOST IS HOW I'M GONNA TELL TOOTS I LOST OUR $200.00 ON THE NAG--- IT WAS MONEY WE SAVED UP TO PAY SOME IMPORTANT BILLS.
I CAUSED YOU TO GET INTO IT, CASPER, SO HERE'S $200.00 TO SQUARE YOU UP AND I'LL MAKE GOOD YOUR FRIENDS LOSSES, TOO...
I CAN'T TAKE YOUR MONEY, EZRA--- NO, I WOULDN'T THINK OF IT----
JIMMY MURPHY
GEE, EZRA--- THANKS--- THANKS A LOT...
I LOST $50,000.00 ON THAT RACE, AND A FEW HUNDRED ONE WAY OR THE OTHER WON'T MAKE OR BREAK ME.
11-2

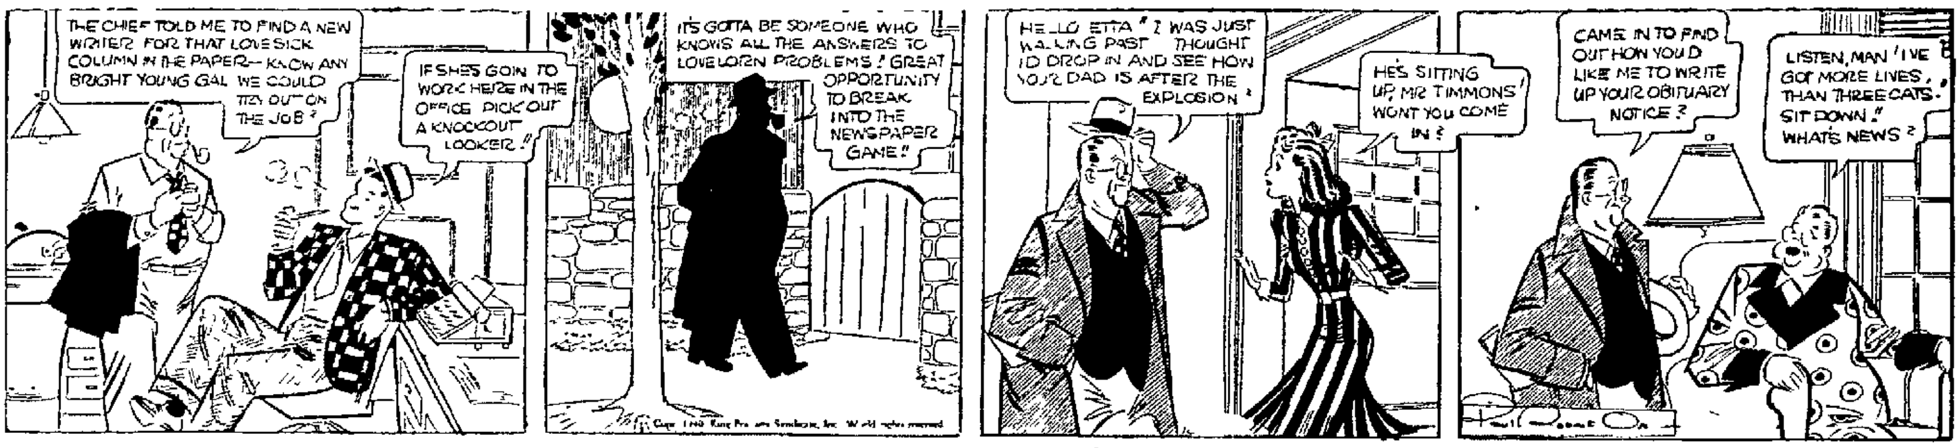
IF IT HAPPENS LATE SATURDAY OR EARLY SUNDAY MORNING

It Will Be In The Sunday Edition of News-Journal

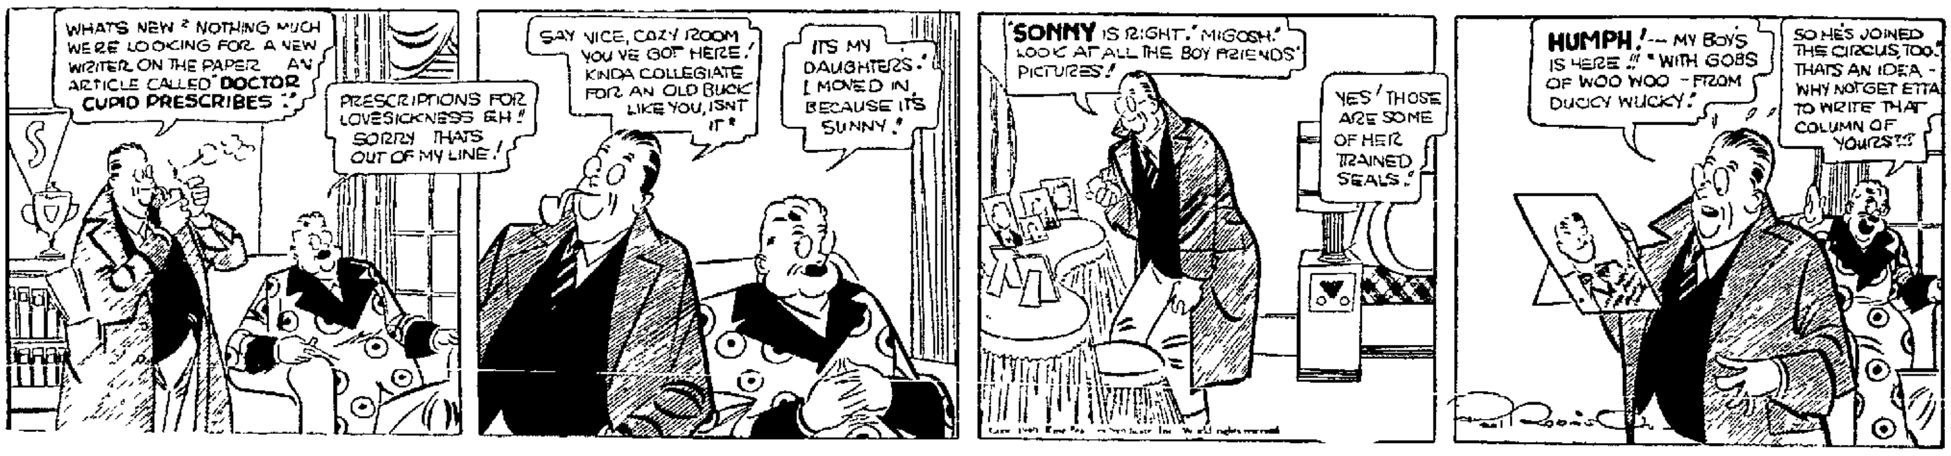
ETTA KETT



HELLO CHIEF! YOU WANTED TO SEE ME?
WHATS THE MOST INTERESTING SUBJECT IN THE WORLD?
LOVE WOULD BE MY GUESS! MONEY NEXT!
WE'VE GOT A FINANCIAL PAGE! WHAT WE NEED IN OUR PAPER IS MORE LOVE INTEREST ON THE HOME AND WOMENS PAGES!
ROMANCE STORIES AND A SPECIAL ARTICLE OR TWO ON MATRIMONIAL ADVICE AND FIRST AID TO THE LOVE LORN.
THAT'S AN IDEA SORT OF LOVE-CLINIC -- BY DOCTOR CUPID!
THEY CAN ALL WRITE IN - WELL PUBLISH THE ANSWERS!
GET A YOUNG WRITER -- PREFERABLY A GIRL! HAVE HER GIVE THE ARTICLES A MODERN TOUCH, WITH PLENTY OF WISE SAYINGS AND WE'LL FEATURE THEM!
Copr. 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved



THE CHIEF TOLD ME TO FIND A NEW WRITER FOR THAT LOVESICK COLUMN IN THE PAPER-- KNOW ANY BRIGHT YOUNG GAL WE COULD TRY OUT ON THE JOB?
IF SHE'S GOIN TO WORK HERE IN THE OFFICE PICK OUT A KNOCKOUT LOOKER!
IT'S GOTTA BE SOMEONE WHO KNOWS ALL THE ANSWERS TO LOVELORN PROBLEMS! GREAT OPPORTUNITY TO BREAK INTO THE NEWSPAPER GAME!
Copr. 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved
HELLO ETTA! I WAS JUST WALKING PAST THOUGHT I'D DROP IN AND SEE HOW YOUR DAD IS AFTER THE EXPLOSION?
HE'S SITTING UP, MR TIMMONS! WONT YOU COME IN?
CAME IN TO FIND OUT HOW YOU'D LIKE ME TO WRITE UP YOUR OBITUARY NOTICE?
LISTEN, MAN! I'VE GOT MORE LIVES THAN THREE CATS! SIT DOWN! WHAT'S NEWS?



WHAT'S NEW? NOTHING MUCH WE'RE LOOKING FOR A NEW WRITER ON THE PAPER AN ARTICLE CALLED "DOCTOR CUPID PRESCRIBES"!
PRESCRIPTIONS FOR LOVESICKNESS EH! SORRY THATS OUT OF MY LINE!
SAY NICE, COZY ROOM YOU'VE GOT HERE! KINDA COLLEGIATE FOR AN OLD BUCK LIKE YOU, ISNT IT?
IT'S MY DAUGHTERS! I MOVED IN, BECAUSE IT'S SUNNY!
SONNY IS RIGHT! MIGOSH! LOOK AT ALL THE BOY FRIENDS' PICTURES!
YES! THOSE ARE SOME OF HER TRAINED SEALS!
HUMPH!-- MY BOY'S IS HERE!! "WITH GOBS OF WOO WOO - FROM DUCKY WUCKY!"
SO HE'S JOINED THE CIRCUS, TOO! THATS AN IDEA - WHY NOT GET ETTA TO WRITE THAT COLUMN OF YOURS?!

Anti-Handbill Ordinance Hits Snag on 'Free Press'

COURT BATTLE PROMISED ON DEARBORN LAW

Auto Workers Claim Order Hits Rights Under Constitution.

(By Associated Press)

DETROIT — Suburban Dearborn's problem of free speech and free press, as involved in an anti-handbill ordinance, has developed new complications with another court battle promised.

Twenty-five members of the United Automobile Workers union (CIO) were arrested yesterday while distributing pamphlets at the gates of the Ford Motor company's Big Rouge plant, and two justices of the peace disagreed on disposition of the cases.

Defendants brought before Justice Lila M. Neunfelt for arraignment were released. On Thursday Justice Neunfelt had ruled the ordinance unconstitutional, declaring it an abridgment of the rights of free speech and free press.

On the other hand, Justice Leo R. Schaefer, before whom other pamphlet distributors were brought, ordered all to stand trial. He declared that Justice Neunfelt's decision was not binding, that a ruling from a higher court was necessary.

The series of legal moves continued with the city of Dearborn petitioning circuit court for an immediate injunction against handbill distribution—and drawing a rebuff from Judge James E. Chenot.

Circuit Judge Chenot, denying an immediate injunction but setting a hearing for Nov. 8 on a show cause order, criticized what he called an effort to have his court "use the injunctive process to reverse the judgment of a justice of the peace."

The disputed ordinance phohibits handbill distribution on certain streets, including those reaching the Ford plant, as a precaution against traffic congestion. The CIO's United Auto Workers claim the ordinance infringes on constitutional liberties.

Pay Day Passes Up Ohio Soldiers at Mississippi Camp

CAMP SHELBY, Miss — (U.P.) — Pay day came and went without incident for the 37th Ohio division—because nobody received any money.

Submissions of rosters in improper form by regimental adjutants and company clerks held up prompt payment on the date scheduled, yesterday. Lieut. Col. Craig Moore said the 112th engineers will be the first to get their cash, on Monday, and the entire Ohio contigent of around 9,000 will be paid by the end of next week.

The initial pay is for federal army service between Oct. 15 and Nov. 1.

OHIO SEAMLESS TUBE DIVIDEND

SHELBY—A regular quarterly dividend of 43¾ cents was declared on the $35 par 5 per cent prior preference stock of Ohio Seamless Tube company by its board of directors at a regular meeting here Friday, E. W. McNeill, secretary - treasurer, announced.

The directors also declared a year-end dividend of $1 on the common stock of the company. This was the first dividend of this kind for the past 10 years, McNeill said.

The prior preference stock dividend is to be paid Dec. 20 of stock record Dec. 10. The common stock dividend is payable Dec. 11 to stock holders on record Dec. 5, McNeill said.

NEVER AGAIN

FAYETTE CITY, Pa. — (AP) — Some 50 persons asked the Fayette county court to prevent transfer of next Tuesday's polling place from the borough building to quarters once occupied by a bank.

"A lot of people lost money in the bank and they won't go near it again—not even to vote," said Pat F. Hynes, one of the petitioners.

Up and Down THE STREET

Mansfield Boy Scouts have been getting a real work-out the past few days, and it looked today as though there would be little let-up in their activities. Thursday the Scouts were detailed to serve during the annual Halloween parade, and yesterday and today the boys have been busy passing out 10,000 dodgers boosting passage of the one-mill levy and on Nov. 11 they will be active in the Armistice parade.

Not many people are aware of it, but the camera which Frank G. Carpenter, whose name was inscribed in the Ohio Journalism Hall of Fame today, took with him on his first trip around the world, is still in Mansfield. It is owned by Sidney Palmer, executive secretary of the Mansfield Community Fund. Palmer bought the camera with its special lens from E. J. Potter, Mansfield photographer, in the early 1890's. The world traveler and writer had sold it to Potter on his return from abroad. It is fitted with a special lens and recorded pictures on glass instead of film. It held eight glass plates at one time. Imagine the hundreds of pictures Carpenter took on his trips which meant packing around that many glass plates. Palmer, who was one of Mansfield's first "camera bugs," has hundreds of plates stored away.

Even if nobody loves a fat lady, they still need dresses and coats according to Mrs. Robert R. Black, West Second street, who is president of the Mansfield Service league. The league, very urgently, needs two dresses and two coats in sizes 42 and 444. There is a possibility that plump women do outgrow their clothes—in or out—and that there may be some good articles of clothing available for the league. Mrs. Black can be reached at Canal 1798.

Melvyn Douglas, handsome screen star and his distinguished actress wife, Helen Gahagan of the legitimate theater, passed through Mansfield Thursday and probably again yesterday on trips between Cleveland and Columbus. They were to have stopped to visit the Bromfields at Malabar Farm but wired that they delayed so long in Cleveland that they couldn't stop as they went through Mansfield to keep a dinner engagement in Columbus. They were to go back through Mansfield yesterday but the Bromfields were keeping an engagement in Cleveland. Douglas and his wife are on a campaign tour for President Roosevelt.

DIES AT AGE 72

Albert J. Blocher Succumbs At Ashland Hospital.

ASHLAND — Albert Jeremiah Blocher, 72, died at Samaritan hospital last evening following an operation yesterday. He had been in ill health since last spring.

He was born April 27, 1868 at Moherman's Corners, south of here, and had resided in that vicinity all of his life. He was a farmer and thresherman. He had never married, and was a member of Trinity Lutheran church.

Surviving are two sistes, Mrs. Ida Richards of Ashland, and Mrs. Hettie Ryland of Bucyrus, a number of nieces, nephews and cousins.

The body is at the Gilbert chapel where friends may call after Sunday noon. Funeral services will be held there at 2:30 p. m. Monday, with Rev. A. H Smith officiating, and burial will be made in the Dickey cemetery.

POSSE SEEKS RAPE BANDIT

All-Night Search Fails to Locate Man Wanted at Lancaster, O.

LANCASTER — (U.P.) — An all-night search proved futile in an effort to locate an unidentified colored man who raped and robbed a 26-year-old woman of a farm family near Lithopolis.

A posse of 75 men and boys was unable to trace the bandit after a half-mile automobile ride he allegedly hitch-hiked with Harry Stevenson, Lithopolis.

Stevenson reported that the man, who said he was "going hunting" when he let him out of the car yesterday afternoon, was carrying a 12-gauge double-barreled shotgun and a claw hammer.

Both weapons had been stolen from the farm home, where a child's penny bank was looted after the woman had been attached in a barn in the presence of her 3-year-old son.

The victim, who was reported in a nervous condition, told authorities that the bandit first asked for some gasoline at the home and later attacked her when she went to feed the chickens.

A revolver which the man carried was used to threaten the son's life.

UNJUST REWARD

Flaming Mattress Tossed On Auto Of Hero.

PANA, Ill. — (AP) — Smelling smoke, Louis Durdy dashed into a neighboring hotel room and rescued a sleeping guest from a flaming mattress, fired by the latter's cigarette.

But the rescue proved costly. Firemen tossed the burning bedding out the window and it landed on Durdy's automobile, damaging the car severely.

NAME OF SECOND MANSFIELDER INSCRIBED IN HALL OF FAME

The names of Frank G. Carpenter, Mansfield, and Nathaniel Willis, Chillicothe, were inscribed today, beside 37 predecessors, in the Ohio Journalism Hall of Fame.

Their names were added to the roll of honor and tribute was paid to their memories last night at a dinner at the Faculty club of Ohio State university.

Newspaper men from all over the state attended the dinner at the university and heard the name of a second Mansfield man added to the roster of fame. In 1937 that of C. S. Cappeller, founder of the Mansfield News, was inscribed. Two names are added each year, chosen by judges among newspaper men. Only one living man has been so honored and that is Prof. Osman Castle, former head of the Ohio State university school of journalism and founder of the Journalism Hall of Fame.

William A. Duff, Ashland, columnist, historian and author of the three-volume history of North Central Ohio, formally presented Mr. Carptenter's name last night.

In paying tribute to Mr. Carpenter's talent as a writer and his contributions to millions of readers, Duff reviewed some of his personal history. Mr. Carpenter, who was born on West Third street May 8, 1855, the son of George F. Carpenter, pioneer attorney of Mansfield, probably was one of the first American newspaper men to syndicate his material. He was a pioneer in this field and blazed the way for hundreds of writers today who are enabled to write for millions of readers through the news and feature syndicates.

Duff told how Mr. Carpenter had started as a newspaper reporter on the Cleveland Leader in 1879. Two years later he began the world travels which was to inspire his many travel books for school children.

After his marriage in 1884 to Miss Joanna D. Condict of Mansfield, he became Washington correspondent for the American Press association and the New York World. In 1888 and 1889 he made a trip around the world for a newspaper syndicate and the Cosmopolitan magazine.

He continued this work until his untimely death on a world trip in Nanking, China, June 18, 1924. His body was returned to Mansfield for burial. In 1920 he had been made a Fellow of The London Geographical society. He was also a member of the Gridiron and National Press clubs at Washington. Long before his death his books on foreign lands were being used widely in public schools throughout the United States.

Duff quoted the inscription on Mrs. Carpenter's tombstone in Mansfield cemetery as a summation of the man's place in literary history:

"To millions of readers and generations of school children, he brought understanding of their fellows in far away lands. To his children he stands for courage, devotion, fair dealings and right living. To all who knew him he was a source of inspiration and pleasure."

The newspaper career and exploits of Nathaniel Willis, editor-publisher of the Sciota Gazette and News-Advertiser of Chillicothe from 1799 to 1807, were described last night by W. E. Beeler, business manager of the now combined papers. He founded the Gazette in 1799 and it is now the oldest newspaper published in the entire Northwest Territory. Mr. Willis had followed the frontiersmen who opened the territory.

Mr. Carpenter's daughter, Mrs. Frances Carpenter Huntington of Washington, D. C., was unable to attend the dinner in honor of her father but two nieces, Mrs. John Hattery and Mrs E. R. Hartman, of Mansfield, were guests. Others from Mansfield who attended were Dr Hattery, Mr Hartman, Mr. and Mrs G. J. Kochenderfer and Mr. and Mrs. John W. Graham.

REMODEL STORE

Preparations Being Made For New Drug Company Here.

The Leed Drug company Monday will start remodeling of the store room at 84 North Main street, which it will occupy as soon as work has been completed.

Announcement to this effect was made today by M. Bachman and B. Brizman, who will operate the company, recently incorporated. The location was formerly that of the Ash Hat company.

The store will be the first of what Bachman and Brizman expect to be a chain of similar stores, and it will be completely modern.

Bachman, who now resides in Mansfield, has had 10 years of experience in the drug business as buyer and general manager of the K-W Drug company in Cleveland. Brizman, who will move to Mansfield soon, has been general manager of the United Perfumery company, Trenton, N. J., a part of the K-W organization.

Teachers Elect Mansfielder as Secretary

ART INSTRUCTOR AT SENIOR HIGH NEW SECRETARY

Marjorie Nunn Campbell Named at Cleveland Meeting; . Miller Gives Address.

Marjorie Nunn Campbell, Mansfield Senior high school art teacher, was elected recording secretary of the Northeastern Ohio Teachers' association at Cleveland today as Mansfield teachers attended educational meetings throughout the state over the weekend.

Other officers elected at the Cleveland meeting were Dal R. Rice, superintendent of Mentor schools, president, and Paul C. Bunn, Lorain school superintendent, member of the Ohio Education association executive meeting.

Meanwhile, Supt. W. L. Miller of Mansfield addressed a meeting of managers and directors of school and restaurants in Cleveland on "Correlation of Lunch Rooms With School Progress;" and Miss Ruth Dunham, Senior high school teacher, spoke at a Marion meeting on "We Are Contemporaries of Epoch-Making Changes."

Mansfield teachers attended meetings in Cleveland, Columbus, Marion, and Toledo yesterday and today.

The teachers took action today to prevent the elimination of the state sales tax and protested a proposal to include teachers in the federal social security program.

Former Gov. Martin L. Davey, seeking re-election on the Democratic ticket, has promised to substitute the sales tax with other revenue sources.

Teachers in the Northeastern and Southeastern Ohio districts opposed the abandonment of the sales tax for fear that the state school foundation program would be impaired.

Protest Proposal.

At Columbus, the Central Ohio Teachers association drew up a resolution opposing a bill now pending in the United States senate which would force them to surrender the benefits of the Ohio State Teachers' retirement system for coverage under the social security act.

At Athens, the Southeastern Ohio Education association condemned in a resolution "any proposal to abolish the sales tax or any other tax necessary to carry out provisions of the school foundation law."

Teachers of the Northeastern Ohio association meeting at Cleveland also adopted a resolution condemning proposals to divert sales or other taxes supporting the school foundation unless other sources of income are provided.

ILLNESS FATAL

Mrs. Pearl Prickett, 60, Dies At Daughter's Home.

ASHLAND—Mrs. Pearl Prickett, 60, of Washington, D. C., died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Bauman, Orange street. She had come here for a visit several months ago and became ill.

She was born in Ashland county Oct. 9, 1880 and was a member of Franklin Methodist church. Surviving are her husband, James B. Prickett of Washington, her daughter, Mrs. Bauman, and a son, L. G. Prickett, also of Washington, three sisters, seven brothers and five grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 8 p. m today at Gilbert chapel, and burial will be made in the Friends cemetery near Fayette Sunday with short services there at 2 p. m.

UNSTEADY FARM PRICES IN OHIO

13 Items Increase While Eight Drop During Month.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — Prices received by Ohio farmers from Sept. 15 to Oct. 15 were unsteady, with a majority of the items increasing over the previous month, the Agricultural Marketing Service reported today.

Of the 24 items listed by the service, 13 increased in price, eight decreased and three remained unchanged. Largest increases were in wheat, eggs and dairy items. Prices for corn, hogs and chickens showed the most decline.

The per unit exchange value of farm products—that is, the ratio of prices received to prices paid, interest and taxes—advanced two points during the month. At 78, it was two points higher than a year ago.

RAID THWARTED

NEW YORK—(AP)—A German-language broadcast by the British broadcasting corporation today said a German expedition of 50 men had been captured in an unsuccessful attempt to seize the meteorological observation station at Greenland. The Norwegian patrol boat Frotjef Nansen made them prisoners, it said.

The broadcast was heard by CBS in New York.

Not That It Matters

Memories of Campaigns of Past; Boom Days Come to Sleepy Mississippi Town

—By JANE WILLIAMS

I CAN remember distinctly seven presidential campaigns before 1940, and less distinctly the one in 1908 when William Howard Taft of Ohio was elected president.

I remember very distinctly the third term battle in 1912 when Teddy Roosevelt, who had been a colorful and spectacular figure, bolted the Republican party because leaders would not permit him to run for a third term. This first Roosevelt president left his party, formed the Bull Moose party and caused the three-cornered battle which gave Woodrow Wilson his great break.

I remember too, the bitter, acrimonious battle of 1920, when the greatest "smear" campaign in American political history was waged, with the be-smeared candidate elected in an unprecedented landslide. The egg-throwing tactics of this 1940 campaign are as nothing compared with the slanderous attacks of 1920. But somehow Harding swept the country, although the slander hurled at him continued to stick.

There never has been a campaign—within the limited scope of my memory—when there was so much general interest in an election. Everyone talks of it and little else: the war in Europe is almost forgotten. Which is a healthy sign, for it means that we are still more interested in our country than all the world affairs put together. It means that no one is indifferent.

Best of all is the fact that every man and woman can vote according to the dictates of his or her own conscience. There is no one in the little booth to watch where the X's go or to check up on them afterward. The right of franchise is not only a patriotic responsibility, but a privilege as well; a privilege that millions of enslaved citizens of Europe would give an eye to possess. Don't flunk it next Tuesday.

HATTIESBURG, Miss., is America's 1940 boom town, according to the boys of Battery D who are at Camp Shelby for training. Six months ago it was a sleepy little southern town with a population of 22,000. Today it is remindful of the boom towns of early Oklahoma and Colorado. Gambling flourishes and Ladies of The Evening are flocking in. Overnight prices zoomed skyward. One Mansfield officer took his family with him—wife and several children—and was comfortable in the knowledge that he had an apartment waiting on which he had paid the first month's rent. But when he landed in Hattiesburg, the apartment was occupied by a tenant who was willing to double the price.

One-bedroom apartments which formerly rented for $20 and $25 now bring the "war profiteers" $60 and $65, and the tenant pays for all public utility bills. Another Mansfield officer who took his family had rented a "white cottage," but when he got there found it was a shack. He took his family to Gulfport, which is 60 miles from the boom town and where prices are still fairly normal.

In addition to the nearby National Guard army camp, the little town has expanded to the bursting point with the descent of 10,000 construction workers who will build the camp-city.

THE ONLOOKERS COMMENT: It isn't hard to guess that President Roosevelt would give his eye-teeth to have the wisdom, political sagacity and wide friendships of big Jim Farley at his beck and call now. Edward J. Flynn, who replaced Farley, is one of those New Yorkers who believe that everything west of the Hudson is Indian Territory. . . .

Italia D'Arbe, 21, New York City, told police that she hadn't meant to throw an onion at President Roosevelt, but that the vegetable merely got mixed up with some paper she was cutting up into confetti. It is very easy to see how an onion could hide behind a piece of confetti. . . .

* * *

THE girls whose best beaux are going into army camps for training needn't run a temperature over the war department's announcement that there will be a small army of hostesses to bolster the morale of more than a million men who will make up the first army in training.

The women will not be young and romantic, but mature women carefully chosen. The war department has been deluged with letters of two types—mothers and girls who feared that their Johnnys might be ensnared by the hostesses: and young girls themselves who are eager and willing to serve their country by playing hostess to uniformed rookies.

In self-defense war department heads announced that only mature, trained women will be hired.

* * *

SENTIMENTALIST In Memorial Building: I had never been in Memorial building since it was remodeled and redecorated until one day this week. While waiting for the list of names of men who may be the new crop of war veterans, stepped into the little room where I used to sit with the old "boys in blue" as they spatted over their eternal games of casino and seven-up.

The old chairs, newly varnished were so carefully arranged around the card table, and I could see again the dignified George Benedict, the joke-maker Tom Shocker, little Mr. Gilbert, Abe Myers, John Constance, James Carmine and Jake Hetler, veteran of the Indian wars who gave me goose pimples with his tales of Custer's massacre.

How many times I said to myself as I looked at them: "You will soon be gone and the veterans of the World war will take your places and grow old and then there will be no more like you for America has fought its last war. We've learned our lesson."

I wonder.

tain peak near Koritza, Albania.

With the Italian army meeting stubborn resistance in its efforts to emulate the blitzkrieg tactics of Adolf Hitler's mighty German military machine, Italy launched an intensive aerial attack on Greek cities in an apparent attempt to terrorize the population into submission.

Ninety civilians were known dead and 209 seriously wounded as the result of the bombing of fifteen Greek towns and villages.

Two new raids before dawn on Salonika were reported to have caused heavy damage to industrial plants and dockyards, at the same time bringing the city's total death roll to 59.

Other cities subjected to repeated aerial attacks included Corfu, Kastoria, Candia, Rethymno, Corinth, Yanina, Metsovo, Megara, Thebes and Larissa. The port and airdrome of Athens also was bombed several times.

The government charged that the Italian planes which bombed the island of Corfu bore Greek markings.

Meanwhile, the small Greek air force was reported to have carried out a low bombing and machine-gun attack on the Italian airdrome at Koritza as well as attacking a concentration of Italian mechanized units in the Epirus sector.

At the same time, the mighty British Mediterranean fleet prepared to strike a blow in defense of Greece.

High-ranking British naval officers landed at Athens and several Hellenic islands and ports and immediately plunged into the task of charting with Greek officers and pilots the entry of British war vessels into Greek waters.

Coordination of Greek and British naval activities was being arranged as the Italo-Greek conflict entered its sixth day.

Some reports hinted naval action already was under way in the eastern Mediterranean and that details might be disclosed in the near future.

Meanwhile, it was announced officially that Italian air raids on Salonika and a dozen other Greek cities killed at least 88 Greek civilians and injured 206.

A Greek radio broadcast said three Greek bombers had raided the Italian army headquarters at Koritza, causing "considerable damage to military warehouses and other military objectives."

Another official announcement said that Italian planes flying over the Epirus section of northern Greece dropped Fascist proclamations declaring Italy has "nothing against the Greek population and will respect their customs and traditions."

Italians Report Salonika Bombed

ROME — (AP) — The bombing of Salonika, Greek naval base, upon which Italy yesterday centered her aerial offensive, was carried out by the famed Desperata squadron which was led by Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano in Ethiopia, the official news agency, Stefeni, said today.

(Count Ciano himself previously has been reported preparing to go to Albania, whence the Italian drive in Greece is being directed. Berlin dispatches said, however, that advices from Rome indicated he may be planning a hunting trip to Germany.)

The Fascist fliers dropped "many tons of explosives" on military and naval objectives which were "completely destroyed," the agency said.

"In the fortified zone, supply dumps, reservoirs and barracks were hit," the dispatch said. "Numerous fires broke out amid discernible devastation."

The agency's correspondent said the Greek anti-aircraft fire was violent and that Greek chaser planes attacked as the Italians headed back toward their base.

The high command said the Italian troops were gradually forcing their way through difficult territory toward Ioannina (Janina) in the Kalamas valley, which is heavily fortified.

Air bombardments of Greek bases yesterday were reported, including an arsenal and ships at Salamins, Corfu, barracks at Skipero, the Larisa railroad staation, where a train was hit, the Corinth canal, the Corinth-Athens railroad line and Salonika.

Fascist warplanes also bombed and machine-gunned troops landing at the island of Crete, hitting steamers and damaging portworks, the high command said.

(Nationality of the landing troops were not reported.)

speech, said "a prominent leader of the Philadelphia bar" had been quoted in the New York Times as saying the president's only supporter's "are paupers, those who earn less than $1,200 a year and aren't worth that, and the Roosevelt family."

("This all too prevailing Republican sentiment" was described by the president as "a direct, vicious appeal to class hatred, to class contempt.")

"I could as well condemn the third term candidate and his whole New Deal party for the irresponsible act of his own secretary in kicking in the stomach a colored policeman who was only doing his duty," Willkie said. "I utterly condemn the alleged utterance of that Philadelphia lawyer, just as the third term candidate should condemn the act of his secretary.

"The whole purpose of the third term candidate's speech was to stir up class hatred and divide our people. That was the tactics of Lenin, the strategy of Hitler and the preaching of Trotsky."

Willkie heard the president's speech by radio on his campaign train, parked on a siding at Manhattan Transfer, N. J., only a few miles from New York.

Just before Mr. Roosevelt went on the air, Willkie broadcast from his private car a talk contending that "neglect and abuse" of the aviation industry by the New Deal would prevent American factories from producing 50,000 planes annually "for a period of years."

Similarly, he contended, it will take years to fill orders for British planes in the United States.

"We must arm Britain with planes, not disarm her with political speeches," he said.

In his statement today, the Republican nominee said Mr. Roosevelt "attempted to defend his record of continually unbalanced budgets and astronomical expenditures by citing the abnormally low interest rate at which some government notes recently were sold."

He called the argument shallow, saying New Deal policies "have so limited the opportunities for investment" in private enterprise that money has been driven "into the bomb proof shelters of tax exempt government bonds."

SHERER RITES

Services For Former Bucyrus Resident Planned Sunday.

BUCYRUS — Funeral services will be held in Republic Sunday afternoon for A. M. Sherer, 66, former Bucyrus resident, who died at his home in Republic Thursday following a long illness. Burial will be made there.

The deceased was born in Whetstone township and spent his early life in and near Bucyrus.

Six children and two sisters, Mrs. A. L. Gerhart of Bucyrus and Mrs. Maude Sharp of Youngstown and two brothers, S. R. Sherer of Bucyrus and J. H. Sherer of Marysville, survive.

HIGHWAY PENSIONS

COLUMBUS— (AP) —Declaring that state highway patrol pensions "have been neglected since the organization was formed," Hal G. Sours, acting highway director, recommended yesterday to Gov. John W. Bricker a revised system intended to compensate workers for "long hours and strenuous service."

'EVIL ALLIANCE' CHARGED BY FDR

Says Republicans Spreading 'Class Hatred, Doctrine of Fear.'

to the processes of democracy abroad."

Two informal speeches from the rear platform of his special train were on the president's schedule today—the first at Rochester, N. Y., in mid-morning, the second at Erie, Pa., in the late afternoon.

Pushing across upper New York state, a corner of Pennsylvania and into Ohio, Mr. Roosevelt was vying primarily for the 109 electoral votes of those pivotal states.

To a crowd which crammed the Academy of Music auditorium in Brooklyn last night, the chief executive asserted he was fighting "to keep this nation prosperous and at peace."

He contended that Republican leaders had spread "class hatred" and had preached a doctrine of "fear" for the future of America. He questioned whether the principal contributors to Republican campaign funds had "the interests of the common man at heart" and commented "very few of us are so gullible" as to believe that.

"Our program in the past, our program for the future," Mr. Roosevelt said, "is equality of economic opportunity."

After discussing what he termed the "unholy alliance," the president said "something evil is happening in this country when a full page advertisement against this administration, paid for by Republican supporters, appears—where of all places?—in the Daily Worker, the newspaper of the Communist party."

(In New York, Fred Smith, director of publicity and advertising for the Republican state committee, said "no advertisement of any sort has been authorized in the Daily Worker by this committee nor by the national committee.")

The "true sentiment of the Republican leadership," Mr. Roosevelt asserted, was illustrated by a prominent Philadelphia lawyer, whom he did not name. He said the New York Times had quoted this lawyer as saying that the only Roosevelt supporters "are paupers, those who earn less than $1,200 a year and aren't worth that, and the Roosevelt family."

Asking whether Republican leaders could deny that "this all too prevailing Republican sentiment" was a "direct, vicious unpatriotic appeal to class hatred, to class contempt," the president said he was fighting just that with all his heart and soul."

Wallace Urges Friendly Policy

STEUBENVILLE—(AP)—Friendship rather than "dollar diplomacy" is believed by Henry A. Wallace to be essential for pan-American solidarity against aggressor nations.

"We can not escape war if aggressor nations should be able to get a foothold to the south of us," the Democratic vice presidential candidate told a Democratic rally here last night after a one-day, 250-mile swing through eastern Ohio.

Pointing to the Panama Canal as a vital link in the United States' two-ocean naval defenses, Wallace declared that the Republican presidential candidate, Wendell L. Willkie, had "no notion of the true method of protecting Panama without war."

Wallace, bidding for Ohio's 26 electoral votes, completes his campaign trip through Pennsylvania and Delaware today.

Friendship with South America, said Wallace, "costs us something, but it costs less than war," and he added:

"That friendship calls on us to be courteous and generous, to refrain from landing marines at every dispute, to get away from dollar diplomacy and act like a nation that other countries can safely trust.

"All this Republican financiers know nothing about.

"Their idea was to lend money—even to force loans on South Americans by bribery and corruption—and then collect if necessary with the navy. What sort of a policy is that for dealing with nations whose friendship we need for our own safety?"

ISLAND BLAZE

Million Dollar Fire Destroys Philippine Buildings.

MANILA, P. I.—INS—A $1,000,000 fire destroyed three solid business blocks in the city of Cabanatuan in the province of Neuva Ecija today.

The fire, one of the worst in the Philippine Islands, started in a restaurant owned by a Japanese who was questioned by police and later released.

MISSIONARY TO GIVE ADDRESS AT ST. JOHN'S

Miss Hedwig Schaeffer, Back From India, to Speak at Two Services.

The annual Missionary Sunday will be observed at the St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church tomorrow. Miss Hedwig Schaeffer, who recently returned from India, will be the guest speaker at the two services.

There will be a special program during the Sunday school period, with musical numbers by orchestra. Miss Schaeffer will talk to all three departments about her experiences as a missionary in India.

The St. John's Sunday school has supported their own missionary for the past 21 years and funds are raised for this purpose each year on the first Sunday in November. Miss Hazel Painter, now serving her third year in Raipur, India, is supported by the local school.

The service at 10:15 a. m. will be in charge of Rev. P. H. Saleste, pastor, at which time Miss Schaeffer will speak on "Seven Years in India." Music will consist of selection by the choir, under the direction of J. C. Klinger. The anthem will be "Ye Shall Dwell In the Land." The organ prelude and offertory will be given by Mrs. Helen Heston, organist.

Meetings during the coming week will consist of brotherhood session at 6:30 p. m. Monday, for a pot-luck supper at the church. Members of the Boy Scout troop, No. 14 will be guests. There will also be a meeting of the Sunday School cabinet on Monday at 7:30 p. m. in charge of the superintendent, Conrad Diehm.

The bi-weekly meeting of the St. John's Guild will be held Wednesday with Mrs. Fred Matthes in charge. The Senior Young People's League will meet Wednesday at 7.30 p. m. in charge of Paul Smith.

SERMON TOPIC

Rev. Grover Swoyer will preach on "Walk Worthy of the Lord" at the morning service at 9:45 a. m. Sunday at First Lutheran church.

The evening service at 7:30 p. m. will be in charge of the Women's Missionary society of the church for the annual thank-offering service.

The missionary address, the theme of which is "Thanksgiving For 1940" will be given by a guest, Mrs Ralph L. Herbert of Youngstown, a former member of the First church here. Mrs. Janell Leonard will read the scripture lesson.

The church council will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. and catechetical classes are held each Saturday at 10 a. m.

Fifth district members will hold their annual Thanksgiving dinner Wednesday noon at the Parish House. Members of the Earnest Worker's class will hold a birthday covered-dish dinner on Friday noon, after which a program and social hour will be enjoyed.

Members of the Women's Missionary society will meet for a social hour Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. at the Parish House to make plans for the membership drive.

Regular meeting of the Intermediate Luther league will be held Sunday at 5:30 p. m. in charge of Patricia Sarby, who will lead the topic "How to Pray."

Senior Luther League will be held at 6:30 p. m. with Ann Ohler leading the topic.

A Halloween party for Intermediates will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the assembly room.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL

Rev. Peter Young, the pastor, will preach on "Beyond the Law" at the morning worship service of the First Congregational church at 10:45 Sunday.

The organist, Miss Kathryn Huber, will play "Cathedral Shadows" by Mason and "Gothic March" by Foschini. The choir, under the direction of A. LeMoine Derr, will sing "Consider and Hear Me" by Wooler; the offertory solo will be sung by Robert Early, "I Was the Tree" by O'Hara.

Church school convenes at 9:30, Junior church at 10:45. Youth Fellowship will meet in the church library at 7 p. m. The Women's Association will hold its monthly tea on Thursday, at 2:30 p. m. Mrs. Edward Smith of Sandusky is the guest speaker. Hostesses are Mrs. Robert Black, chairman; Mrs. Irving Cutting, Mrs. Alex Fraser, and Mrs. C. G. Hillier.

COMMUNNION SERVICE

The deacons of the Park Avenue Baptist church, the minister of music, Lawrence S. Frank, and the pastor, Rev. Albert L. Linder, have arranged a special communion service to be held Sunday at 10:30 a. m. celebrating the first communion of the new minister and congregation.

Rev. Albert L. Linder, Mrs. Linder and Mrs. Albert Linder, sr., mother of the pastor, will receive the hand of fellowship from P. M. Wooden, chairman of the board of deacons.

Music for the service has been arranged by Frank.

Rev. Linder will use as his communion meditation theme "Meat to Eat."

SUBJECT ANNOUNCED

"Everlasting Punishment" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in the Church of Christ, Scientist, Sunday.

The golden text is: "Righteousness keepeth him that is upright in the way; but wickedness overthroweth the sinner" (Proverbs 13.6).

200 EXPECTED AT CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR MEET

Surrounding Towns to Send Delegates to Session In Mansfield Sunday.

More than 200 young people from Mansfield and nearby towns are expected to attend the fall convention of the Richland County Christian Endeavor association, Sunday, at the First Presbyterian church in Mansfield.

Rev. Harry W. Baumer, pastor of the Eighth Reformed and Evangelical Church of Cleveland, will be the principal speaker. Rev. Baumer was recently elected president of the Ohio C. E. Union. The theme of the convention will be "Christ Calls, I'll Answer."

The afternoon meeting begins at 3 o'clock and the evening session at 7:30. Main features of the afternoon meeting will be a playlet entitled "The Three T's", and several conferences pertaining to C. E. work. Special attention will be given to Junior and Intermediate Endeavorers since new societies have been recently organized for young people of that age. Awards will be given the society having the largest percentage of its members present. A lunch will be served at 5:30 p. m.

Miss Mildred Barber, Plymouth, chairman of the committee in charge of the convention will preside at the afternoon session. Miss Twila Setterfield of Shelby, president of the County C. E. Union will preside at the evening session. Rev. Baumer will speak during the evening.

Supper will be served by the society of the host church. Nornal MacCartney of Mansfield, chairman of registration of county delegates to the state convention, will preside.

The conference will close with a Christian Endeavor meeting at 6:30 p. m. and the "state night" program at 7:30 p. m. Shenandoah society will have charge of the meeting.

Richard Hampton of Plymouth will lead the song service for the evening session. Presentation of the attendance awards will be made by Rev. Thomas of Plymouth. Closing this session will be a consecration service following the main address given by Rev. Baumer of Cleveland.

GUEST SPEAKER

Miss Lucy Wakeland, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A. will be the guest speaker Sunday morning at the First Presbyterian church at 9:15, Sunday school period. Her subject will be "Character Building Through Supervised Recreation."

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1940.

Drive carefully tomorrow—and remember to get back in time to vote next Tuesday.

A political campaign offers a good opportunity to brush up on such words as "epithet," "invective," derogatory," and the like.

And, by the way, will you please remember to use a BLACK lead pencil in marking your ballot—don't use your fountain pen or an indelible or colored pencil.

Strangely Like the 1916 Happenings

MORE FIGURES were printed in American newspapers this week than in any previous week in history—page after page of them in the newspapers of large and small cities—each set of numbers representing a group of young men registered under the Selective Service Act for a year's military training—and whatever may come after that.

In the first peace-time draft in United States history, a check-up is being made of the nation's young manhood, with a view to getting ready to defend the Western Hemisphere in the event of foreign aggression.

The national guard has already been mobilized for training and draft quotas provide that 800,000 selectees shall be in training camps by next June.

Present conditions are different from those of 1917, when the United States was already at war and young men were being drafted for hurried training in preparation for immediate service.

Now there is a hope, and a belief in some quarters, that the United States can still avoid actual participation in the war, although this is questioned by many who have been close observers of the trend of events during the past year.

There can be no doubt that it is the earnest desire of a vast majority of the people of this country to keep out of war, coupled with increasing realization of the wisdom of Washington's advice to "avoid foreign entanglements."

Despite experiences in the World war, however, the trend of recent events in Europe has seemed to justify moves toward a greater militarizing program than this country has ever experienced, with a potential army of millions of men and the expenditure of untold billions of dollars for armament.

No wonder there is a feeling of deep concern among those old enough to recall the similarity of present happenings to those of the 1916 campaign, with its "He kept us out of war" slogan, and the 1917 entry of the United States into Europe's conflict.

Dictators Shout and Strut

THE dictatorships, along with their ruthlessness and cruelty, have some other characteristics of a less important but more entertaining nature—their literary style in public pronouncements, for instance. A dictator always seems to think he has to strut, shout and snort fire and brimstone.

Lately we have had more of such language than usual from Berlin and Rome. Hitler's spokesmen have told repeatedly how they are going to reduce the enemy "inexorably to complete annihilation." Mussolini, who has also been extremely "inexorable" lately, goes at it even more strongly. He finds it easier than his partner, because the Italian language is better equipped than German with long, rolling, sonorous words and phrases.

Meanwhile the democracies haven't been saying much, but what they do say is usually short and to the point. The English language is exceptionally well supplied with strong words, short and expressive, that leave no doubt as to their meaning.

Defense Against Propaganda

FIRST REACTION of a reader of the article on "Fifth Columnists" in the current Survey Graphic may be one of despair. How can ordinary people combat such a thoroughly organized propaganda system as that of the Nazis? A little further thought makes the reader more cheerful and determined.

Any illegal propagandist activity may be left to the police authorities and the F. B. I. But there is something that every citizen truly believing in democracy can do to defend it against the destructive propaganda of the totalitarian groups.

The first thing is to be clear in his own mind about the principles and practices of democracy. That should make him immune to the campaign of racial prejudice which is part of the Nazi propaganda system in our own and other lands. Whispers of hatred of any racial or national groups are deliberately set going by enemies of our system. Accepting them or condoning them aids such enemies.

Recognition of the ills in our social system and honest study and application of suggested remedies present another bulwark against enemy propaganda.

Such things may seem somewhat vague, but they are not. Outright lies are readily recognized. Sly doubts and malicious criticism, since they may take advantage of honest criticism, are harder to spot. They need to be fought by every citizen's knowing that wrongs may be righted by the democratic process.

Better Planning for Forums

A NEW COURSE in forum leadership has been announced at Columbia university under the auspices of the Extension Division. It is given in response to widespread interest in public discussion of political and cultural planning and management. There will be prominent speakers at class meetings. After a class, students will meet the speaker and proceed to analyze and discuss the matter presented by him. Later, students will be ready to lead other forum groups.

For a number of years Americans have been going to lectures and listening to speakers on all sorts of topics from travel to serious political and economic subjects. A good deal of the time they merely listened, went home, and forgot. It was little more than entertainment.

The new forum habit is an improvement. It indicates growing interest in separating emotion and bias from truth and following the statement of a problem with a search for its meaning, causes and solutions.

Well-conducted and well-attended forums are an improved modern version of the old cracker-barrel free-for-all. They are a wholesome sign in a self-governing nation.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—A few weeks ago we congratulated Buddy DeSylva, via this space ,for elevating Betty Allen to the role vacated by Ethel Merman in "Du Barry Was a Lady." Miss Allen is a young woman who had, until that moment, always served as an understudy, but had never starred. The Merman vacancy gave her a chance.

But it wasn't but a handful of days after this that the show announced still a new addition to the cast. The tall, well-known figure of Gypsy Rose Lee, ex-burlesque strip tease dancer, was brought to the company, and the Merman role was divided into two parts. Miss Allen was to remain and sing all but two of the songs, but Miss Lee was to play the role of "Du Barry" and speak the lines

Buddy DeSylva knows his business, I suppose. He must; he's made a lot of money on Broadway, and you don't make money on Broadway unless your judgment is sound. Nevertheless, we can't see Miss Gypsy Rose Lee as an improvement in any way over Miss Allen. We think she is a swell person but mediocre as a singer and talker.

* * *

WE WERE wondering how the two girls were making out, whether there was any hair-pulling back stage as a result of this shift, but one of our colleagues, who chatted with them both, says no.

"Of course," Betty told him, "I was disappointed that I couldn't keep the part as long as the show stayed on Broadway, but you couldn't expect Gypsy Rose to remain idle until they took the show on the road—that might be December or later. . . . So I don't have any hard feelings on that account. I'm glad to stay in the show. I'm young and can afford to wait. Now you take Gypsy. She's a natural for the role. She's more the Du Barry type than I am, and on the road she's known; her name will mean more at the box office."

So that's the new set-up, as of today, with "Du Barry Was a Lady," which has proved itself one of Broadway's happiest events in a long while. The show must be almost a year old now, and still coming money.

AS FOR Betty Allen—she's 24, a brunet with flashing eyes and a husky voice, a native of San Diego, Calif., who has lived most of her life in New York.

She's been on the stage nine years, "often an understudy but never a lead," she grins. . . . "Funny thing," she recalls, "the first job I ever had was understudying Ethel Merman in the 'Scandals,' and now I was hired to understudy her again."

Betty lives with her mother and likes to paint in her spare time.

She's never exhibited any of her work in a gallery, but some of her stuff is hanging in a little hamburger stand around the corner from where she lives.

She thinks that's funny.

Many Bitter Campaigns In Past

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Finley Peter Dunne's Mr. Dooley was speaking over his bar to Hennessey. "Soon," said Mr. Dooley, "the election will be over and after that Dooley goes back to his beer pumps and Hennessey goes back to his slag pile and the old flag'll continue to wave over us all."

Apparently Mr. Dunne knew his history as well as he knew his Irish Americans. There have been 37 national elections. With the exception of the first none has been unanimous. Invariably election campaigns have been marked with bitterness. Some have been muddy. Some even have been bloody. Ripe eggs and over-ripe vegetables have been thrown—many times.

But only twice in the history of the United States have election battles resulted in post-election hangovers and from one of these the sick nation emerged healthier and happier than it had been for decades.

Every four years Johnny Q. Democrat and Richard R. Republican strip to the waist and go at it tooth and nail with no holds barred. Socking below the belt is common. Every four years—except in two instances—they've dragged their aching bodies out of bed the morning after election to get back to the united task of seeing that America carries on.

One of those two instances, of course, was the Civil war when the boys got mixed up in the slavery question and had to call on Joe Public to go out on the field of battle and settle the fight once and for all.

* * *

1876 Was Acid Test.

THE other was the exception that proves the rule: the great Hayes-Tilden dispute in 1876. Then a presidential election hung in doubt nearly four months while charges and counter-charges blistered the walls of congress, the paving stones of the cities and the fields of the farms. By a carpet-bag count in Louisiana, Florida and South Carolina, Rutherford B. Hayes had stolen the election, the Democrats screamed. By threat and intimidation of the Negro voters in those same states, Samuel J. Tilden had stolen the election, shouted the Republicans. With a Democratic House of Representatives and a Republican Senate, the deadlock remained unbroken until almost the day of inauguration. The threat of civil war appeared again.

Then as quickly as the clouds gathered, they were dispelled. Hayes, who on the face of things had only 184 electoral votes to Tilden's 185, and about 300,000 fewer popular votes, was declared elected president of the United States. Within a few weeks the troops were withdrawn from the three states in question and their state governments given back to the Democrats. Following one of their bitterest battles in history, the boys had met the acid test. Joe Public's will be done.

* * *

20th Century Scraps.

THERE had been bitter election fights before. The rise and reign of Thomas Jefferson—of Andrew Jackson, at the beginning of whose second administration a famous tariff compromise scotched secession of South Carolina—of Abraham Lincoln, who went into office with a million fewer popular votes than the total cast for his opponents.

There have ben campaign wars since the time when mud flew freely and bruises marred the body politic. Within our own time there was the three-way Roosevelt-Wilson-Taft battle of 1912—the sometimes almost vicious Hoover-Smith contest of 1928.

Sitting on sidelines here in Washington, the impartial political graybeards several times have wagged their heads and dubbed the 1940 campaign one of the tougher scraps. Through this focal point passes all the charges, flows all the mud and smear of every presidential campaign.

And if you stay away from the boys in the thick of the fray and ask the graybeards, they'll tell you Mr. Dooley was right. If you don't believe it, they say, just look in the history books.

Listen World!

Always an England!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

TWO PICTURES are clutching me these days . . . going with me in all my thoughts.

One's the picture of a tiny babe, born in a British air-raid shelter on a hastily gathered couch of odds and ends. Only a few days old, but as dauntless as any Saxon raider . . . tiny fists clinched, baby jaw jutting . . . he lies in his mother's arms. Above him bends her wise, adoring face . . . his father's friendly smile . . . his little sister's wonder and delight.

Homeless and bankrupt, yet they bring to us, those four, that holy, ancient night in Bethlehem. The hands that hold the babe are as calloused and work-worn as gentle Mary's and her kindly Joseph's must have been. The walls around are crude as any cattle shed. The earth above, as greedy and blood stained as in the days when Herod ruled supreme. And yet—

The angels sing above that downy head. The unseen shepherds kneel around his bed. For, once again though all the world is torn, the lovely, deathless miracle of Love is born!

The other picture was as plain and potent. A humble worker's cottage had been bombed. The walls that had meant home and happiness were down. But, on the fragment of the sill, the man had scrawled his faith—his gesture to all that he knew of God. The title of a song they're singing over there—

"THERE'LL ALWAYS BE AN ENGLAND!"

Danger and death, anguish and agony, howling like a wolf pack through the night. Poverty and negligence . . . hunger and hate . . . weariness and despair . . . swarming in waves overhead . . . battering at their hearts. Yet they could glow in welcome to a tiny babe. Yet they could write on the sill of a ruined house—

"THERE'LL ALWAYS BE AN ENGLAND!"

Yet they could cry to a murderous sky—

"THERE'LL ALWAYS BE AN ENGLAND!"

"There'll always be an England!" God, how that cry should quicken and hearten every frightened, flagging pulse! And brighten to new flame, each lagging hope.

"There'll always be an England!" Paris may be taken, Norway and Belgium betrayed, Dunkirk and Dover bombed, but, always, as long as righteous Courage lifts its tightened fist . . . and Love bestows its shining tenderness . . . the battle is not lost!

For England's not a nation or a name. England's the finest, fairest dream that ever sprung in human heart—a dream which we, too, share. A dream of freedom and equality . . . of love and courage, friendliness, fair play. A dream as deeply rooted as the soul . . . as deathless as that spark God breathed in senseless clay, and so made man.

"There'll always be an England!"

The guns may roar. The planes may flock and drop their deadly yield of bombs. The tanks may heave their tidal waves of death. And men may lie in bloody, broken piles. But just as sure as Love and Faith go on . . . and just as sure as that bright star still hangs which lit the pathway to a manger shrine—

"There'll always be an England!"

No Promises to Bosses.

Wendell Willkie owes no political debt to any Boss Hague, Boss Flynn, Kelly-Nash machine or any other unsavory petty political tyrant in the United States.

He is free to carry out his program without the least consideration for the likes or dislikes of any special or privileged group.

Every one of his promises have been dedicated to a better, more productive, freer and stronger America. They have been specific promises of freedom from political restriction. They have been guaranties of political, economic and spiritual freedom in the American conception of freedom

Wendell Willkie's promises have been made to the free American people And because they are unrestricted by secret agreements with sinister, greedy forces and unadulterated by corruption and cynicism they have given sprout already to a renewed American faith in harmony, prosperity and happiness for the future.—Columbus Dispatch.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"On the Shelf."

Used familiarly, for example, of a spinster for whom the outlook of marriage is pessimistic, we have this figure of speech from the lexicon of the book publisher.

Since the earliest days of this industry, books that have run the gamut of their popularity and whose sales have in consequence suffered if not stopped would be said to be "on the shelf;" while those in demand would be described as "on the table."

Hence the application of the words to anyone whose usefulness has come to an end.

Without Benefit of Art.

I like you as you are, my dear,
  Rouge does not make you more
Or fairer in my eyes; I like
  You as you were before

You sought this new enhancement of
  The clipped and penciled brow.
I think that you were prettier
  Before than you are now.

Your simple curls became you best.
  Marcelling does you harm.
And so I view the streamlined you
  With fear and some alarm.

It is a substantial structure on U. S. Route 40 joining in midstream a branch connecting with what was formerly the village of Putnam. The original bridge, completed in 1832, was of wood. It was covered and very wide, with a few small windows on either side. It was torn down and replaced by the concrete "Y" bridge completed in 1902.

With a single exception it is said to be the only "Y" bridge in the world.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Outcome In Doubt at Week-End, Both Sides Claim Victory Ahead

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

POLITICIANS have nurtured the theory in recent campaigns that voters make up their minds weeks before election day. Hence any home-stretch campaigning is colorful but ineffectual.

This year, neither side is cock-sure. In fact both suspect that there are still vast flocks of votes at large, or votes that still can be wrested from the opponent. Three factors have strengthened this belief.

1. CIO Chieftain John L. Lewis' switch to Wendell Willkie raised anew the question of whom CIO laborers would support.

2. Candidate Roosevelt began his active campaign only recently.

3. Many voters will wait till the last moment to see what prospects lie ahead for peace in Europe before making a decision.

Both sides appeared to be heartened by the prospect that there may be a history-breaking outpouring of nearly 50,000,000 votes next Tuesday, five million more than voted in 1936.

Wendell Willkie and Franklin Roosevelt, however, pointed to handicaps. Willkie was dogged by an extremely hoarse throat most of the week. Roosevelt had to consult the state department before each junket and phone Secretary Hull every few hours because of the Balkan crisis.

The president said his aim during the week was to nail to the "barn door" more Republican "falsifications." At New York's Madison Square Garden a surprise guest on the platform was Jim Farley, former postmaster general, who beamed and nodded during the speech.

Most of the president's barbs were aimed at Republican congressmen. He charged that they reversed themselves in midair on defense when election approached, and that they sabotaged the administration's efforts to increase defenses. He quoted profusely from the congressional record.

In Boston the president disclosed, approvingly, that Britain wants to buy 12,000 more planes here.

Willkie counter-attacked with the charge that on the basis of FDR's "past performances and pledges" this country "may expect war by April, 1941" if the president is re-elected. Later he said:

"If in June, congress had obeyed the president's behest to adjourn, the U. S. would still have $7,000,000,000 less defense 'on order' than it now has. Congress refused to go home because of the Republican insistence that it stay in session."

Dewey Quotes Woodring.

Thomas E. Dewey, defeated by Willkie for the GOP nomination, chimed in by quoting an army report to this effect: "In 1937 Mr. Woodring (then secretary of war) said: 'The United States army is relatively weaker, compared with armies of other great countries, than it was a year ago.' "

FDR's running mate, Henry Wallace, repeated—but in stronger terms than previously—that "the Nazi agents in this country have been ordered to work" for Willkie's election.

Ambassador to England Kennedy returned, squelched rumors of a rift between himself and FDR by urging a third term. He said they had been at odds on details, not on fundamentals.

At Home

158 Makes News.

Uncle Sam wants:
30,000 men by Nov. 18.
400,000 by next March.
800,000 by next June 15.

And so, at Washington, last Tuesday, was conducted the drawing of the master numbers for the nation's first peacetime draft.

President Roosevelt announced it was "for one purpose: the defense of freedom." Blindfolded, Secretary of War Stimson drew first number—158.

Other dignitaries drew, and then the task of determining the order of calling up 17,000,000 registrants was left to Draft Director Dykstra's clerical force.

Draft boards must hustle now to get 30,000 men ready for the army by Nov. 18. By Nov. 7 the boards are expected to have questionnaires in the mail to holders of the first 50 numbers drawn.

World of Yesterday.

Wreckers began whacking away at a $155,000,000 investment early this week. The New York World's Fair ground is to become a vast municipal park. But before the extravaganza closed Sunday 538,000 cash customers (500 per acre, and 40,000 more than had even been on the grounds in one day before) elbowed their way in to cavort, pluck flowers, and snatch any souvenirs unguarded by the 1,000 extra police. In its two years, the fair had 45,000,000 cash customers, not enough to pay. Backers stand to recover about 39 cents on each dollar they invested. Concessionaires, however, made out well.

Preparedness Notes.

"We are at least six months ahead of our record in the World war," declared Maj. Gen. C. H. Wesson, army ordinance chief, at Cleveland. He said private contractors "have taken hold," and that the six manufacturing arsenals have stepped up production nearly 50 per cent.

Abroad

Nipponese Confession.

After two months, Japanese now admit that at midnight, Aug. 20, the Chinese sprang the biggest, most damaging attack of the war. They concede that about 30,000 Chinese Red soldiers uncorked a "remarkably well organized attack" along 500 miles of Japanese-controlled railroads in North China.

The Reds blew up bridges, blasted overhanging cliffs, damaged tunnels, tore up track over a 50-mile stretch, and carried off the rails to forge them into guns.

Japanese now speak respectfully of 300,000 well-trained Communist regulars. And officials in Chungking fear such successes will strengthen the Reds (their allies) with the Chinese masses.

Meanwhile, in the far South, Japanese acknowledge that they are withdrawing from the big city of Nanning, for which they fought for weeks a year ago. They say occupation of Indo-China makes the holding of Nanning "meaningless." Chinese insist the Japanese quit to avoid encirclement. This is the first provincial capital regained by Chinese in three years of war.

France: 'Wait and See.'

The only explanation totalitarian France gave for joining the Axis last week-end was that it could better "work for peace." Swiss rumor-factories reported that the French had been promised: a return of some "occupied" territory, the use of beloved Paris as a capital, and release of more French war prisoners. And in return, the French would give the Axis full use of air and sea bases in Tunisia and Syria.

But the French—in replying to anxious queries from the U. S. about any transfer of colonies, warships or bases—insisted that none was involved. French subjects dubious of the new tie were told: "Trust in Premier Petain and wait and see."

Latin America

Embargo Called Off.

So pinched was Mexico by the British blockade of northern Europe early this year that she assigned a commission to boost trade with hard-pressed Japan. With the recent signing of the totalitarian tripartite agreement, Mexico began canceling the agreements with Japan.

This week in a quiet move, she placed agents at her, principal ports to halt cargoes of war materials and foodstuffs from sailing for Japan. But on the eve of the day it was to go into effect, the unofficial embargo was suspended, at least temporarily. Reason: it threatened to upset Mexico's economy.

Meanwhile General Juan Almazan, who still claims he was elected president of Mexico last July though he's not the officially-recognized winner, says he will take office as president Dec. 1. Further, he hints—from New York City—Mexico's army will back him up.

An Island's Fugitives.

Usually, slow death faces French prisoners who go to notorious Devil's Island, off French Guiana. But in the chaos caused by the fall of France, guards became lax if not co-operative. Within a month more than 30 fugitives straggled into Puerto Rico alone. It's a 1,200-mile trip. U. S. officials, in holding most of the men, have been assured by France that her hold on the island is again becoming firm.

Science

Cancer Cause?

A steady rise in lung cancer since 1920 has been observed by Tulane university's Dr. Alton Ochsner in autopsies made at a New Orleans hospital. He told the American College of Surgeons, meeting in Chicago, that this closely parallels the rise in cigaret smoking during the same period, and concluded:

"It is my contention that smoking cigarets is a cause of cancer of the lungs, because we know that irritation is a factor in the incident of cancer, and we know that smoking causes a chronic irritation of the lungs, as for example 'smokers' cough.' " First signs, he said, are a cough, discomfort of the chest and bloody sputum.

MRS. GIFFORD SPEAKS AT CHAPTER MEETING

Discusses Schools Before Jared Mansfield, D. A. R., Reports Given on National Defense, Museum During Session.

DURING the meeting of the Jared Mansfield chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, which was held last night at the Women's Club with Mrs. Lamar Goard and Mrs. F. J. Gosser as hostesses, Mrs. W. H. Gifford gave a paper entitled "Public Schools—Yesterday and Today." The paper traced the development of schools from the crude New England variety to our modern vocational buildings today.

She told her audience that there have been many changes but the principles of education have been handed down unaltered from generation to generation. An open discussion followed.

Following the patriotic opening, Mrs. John Shook, chaplain, led the devotions, and Mrs. Stanley Richardson, regent, conducted the business session. Mrs. A. C. Tuttle reported that the Past Regents' club has placed ten subscriptions to the National Defense News in various city schools and lodges, and has purchased ten flag posters to be framed and distributed.

The club functions as the committee on national defense through patriotic education.

The chapter made a contribution to the D. A. R. National Museum after Mrs. C. H. Henkel gave the committee report. The next meeting will be held Dec. 6 at the Club with Mrs. Frances Scattergood and Mrs. Sidney Palmer as hostesses.

Nuptial Shower Honors Miss Nail

Another in the series of prenuptial parties honoring Miss Florence Nail, bride-elect of John Catlett, was given yesterday evening at the Colonial Guest House on the Wooster road. Six of Miss Nail's Chi Sigma sorority sisters were the hostesses, and they included Miss Eileen Logan, Miss Betty Hammel, Miss Eleanor Clingan, Mrs. Norman E. Leonard, Mrs. John Courtney and Mrs. Wayne Sutton.

Bridge was the diversion during the evening, and high score prizes were awarded to Mrs. Arthur Knight and Miss Mary Lou Hout. Later a two-course luncheon was served at the small tables, which were decorated with lighted tapers, surrounded by clusters of autumn flowers.

Miss Nail then received a shower of bathroom gifts from the guests. The hostesses presented her with a lace tablecloth in honor of the occasion. Miss Nail and Mr. Catlett will be married on Nov. 16 before the altar of St. Luke's Lutheran church.

Award Prizes at First University Club Party

There were 80 persons present at the Mansfield-Leland hotel last night for the first University club buffet bridge of the season. Lloyd Brown, social chairman, was in charge of arrangements, and high score awards were presented to Mrs. W. B. Osborn and Merritt Giles. A buffet supper was served at the close of the play, and the next dance was announced for Nov. 30.

Other prize winners were W. F. Carr, Mr. and Mrs. Barney Ford, Fred Grimes, Mrs. J. J. Kindel, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Eberly, Mrs. Paul Wier, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Schwier, Mrs. Lydon Beam, Mrs. Arthur Sprecker, Dr. William Reister, Tom Mowry, Mrs. Walter Peirce, G. L. Dobson, Mrs. K. T. Langacher, and Miss Berniece Os-

CHILDREN IN SESSION.

Members of the Sundial Junior Garden club met at the home of Rose Mary Mascas on Marion avenue last evening. Following the routine business, Bea Walters gave a talk on "Winter Bouquets." Refreshments were served at a late hour. Charlotte Collins will have the next meeting, Nov. 8, at her home on Dawson avenue.

* * *

SOCIETY MEETS.

The Willing Workers society met Thursday at the church for quilting and a covered-dish dinner. Two guests, Mrs. Catherine Garns, Jeromesville, and Mrs. Kate Rush, Hayesville, were present. The group will meet at the Little Washington church again next Thursday.

Mother, Friend Give Shower For Mrs. Dent

There were 25 guests present last night at the miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Nettie Metzer, 342 West Fourth street, and Miss Charlotte Winskey, in honor of the former's daughter, Mrs. Harvey Dent, the former Miss Lois Mentzer. Games were played, and prizes, which were given to the bride, were won by Mrs. Donald Orewiler, Mrs. Carl Crail, Miss Helen Mentzer and Mrs. George Flockencier.

Refreshments were served from a table decorated with chrysanthemums and asters. A color scheme of pink and blue was used. Questions on the packages presented to Mrs. Dent were answered by the bride before she opened each.

* * *

HAVE KID PARTY.

A "kid" party was an event of yesterday evening for members of the Cyane club at the home of Mrs. Pat Colangelo on Penn avenue. Mrs. George Conklin was welcomed as a new member during the evening. Bridge was the diversion, and prizes were won by Mrs. James Gills and Mrs. Peter Creamer, jr. Luncheon was served at a table decorated with bright-colored balloons. Mrs. Gills, West Fourth street, will be hostess for a backwards party on Nov. 13.

* * *

GIVES PARTY.

Mrs. Inez Tawse, 131 Glenwood boulevard, opened her home yesterday afternoon for a party entertaining members of the Sarah E. Lewis Junior club. Prizes in the games were won by Gloryann Doerr, Doris Steinbring and Ada Wakeley. Refreshments were served. It was also announced that Mary Ann Edmonstone, past president of the club, had presented a flag to the Woodville school Girl Scout Troop 17. The next meeting will be held Nov. 8 at the Memorial building.

Mrs. Brown Talks At Republican Women's Affair

Mrs. Katherine Kennedy Brown, president of the Republican Women's Federated clubs and national committee woman of Dayton, was the guest speaker yesterday afternoon during a tea from 2 until 4 o'clock in the ballroom of the Mansfield-Leland hotel. More than 200 persons attended this affair, which was given by the Republican Women's council.

Mrs. Philip Wolfe introduced the out-of-town guests, who all gave brief talks. They were Congressman J. Harry McGregor and Mrs. McGregor of Columbus; Mrs. Thomas Herbert and Mrs. Edward Turner, also of Columbus; Judge Clinton Boyd and his daughter, Betty, of Middletown, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jamison of Lorain.

Music on the program was furnished by Smart's Accordion trio and Marilyn Joyce Teeter, who sang "God Bless America." Mrs. McGregor and Mrs. Brown presided at the tea table, which was decorated with the American flag and red, white and blue floral arrangements.

Study Club Members Have Halloween Party

Members of the Notre Dame Study club entertained their husbands at a Halloween party held last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Macy, Maumee avenue. Games were played and refreshments were served. Mrs. Frank Harpster won the costume prize. Other prizes were won by Mrs. O. A. Shoup, J. M. O'Hara, and Mrs. Wehinger.

The committee assisting Mrs. Macy included Mrs. Clem Wehinger and Mrs. John O'Donnell. The next regular meeting will be held Nov. 12 instead of Nov. 5 as formerly announced. Mrs. Paul Hensler will be the hostess, and Mrs. J. Marion O'Hara will have the program.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, November 3

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE holds presage of brilliant successes and much personal gratification, especially in all pertaining to church, social or friendly contacts or affiliations. And while affairs should move at a lively pace yet there may be rather serious and perplexing problems to cope with.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy some very alluring and promising opportunities for attaining their heart's desire "in a big way." However in such ambitious and expansive situations it would be wise to have attention to schemes, plots and all manner of intriguing, deceitful or glamorous entanglements. Sound methods based on industry and merit may be lucrative. For the young and eligible there is forecast of much pleasure in romance.

A child born on this day although it has sound aims, efficiency and ambition may be carried away by lures, treachery and suspicious entanglements.

For Monday, November 4.

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a rather successful and propitious day, with important projects and aims responding to an expansive and productive impetus, although there are drawbacks and limitations to be dealt with. Also there may be the menace of fraud, duplicity and subtle situations, in connection with superiors or those in power. Resist strife and impetuosity.

Those whose birthday it is may have a promising and profitable year, with ambitious objectives under expansive influence, despite static, tricky or dishonest situations to dispose of. This threatens from high places, although generally results and co-operation may come from influential sources.

Entertain Guests At Woodville Club Meeting

Mrs. Mina Niman, Mrs. Thomas Ferguson and Mrs. Carl Calver were guests of the Woodville Social club yesterday afternoon at a meeting at the home of Mrs. Earl Dickson on West Second street. Mrs. Clara Calver and Mrs. Howard Calver were the associate hostesses.

Games were played and several prizes awarded after the business session. Luncheon was served at the close of the afternoon. Mrs. Carl DuPre has invited the members to her home on the South Main road for a meeting on Nov. 15.

* * *

PLAN INSTALLATION.

Members of the Daughters of Scotland lodge planned to hold their installation of officers Nov. 23, when they met last night at North Lake park for a regular session. A masquerade party was held for the children. Halloween decorations were used and refreshments were served by Mrs. Thomas Wilson and Mrs. Irene Broiler. The next regular meeting will be held at the park Nov. 15.

* * *

SURPRISED.

In celebration of her birthday Miss Adeline Distl was surprised Thursday evening at a party given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Distl, Bahl avenue, East Mansfield. Hostesses were the Misses Ann Distl and Betty Lucas. Prizes for the scavenger hunt which followed were won by Miss Ella Vogel, the guest of honor, John Kurso and Al Trenoff. Dancing followed and refreshments were served.

* * *

ENTERTAINS.

Mrs. Amos Day was hostess for a dessert-luncheon for members of the Utilian club at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon at her home, 545 West Fourth street. The table was decorated with a bouquet of chrysanthemums and asters. The afternoon was spent socially, and the next meeting, Nov. 15, will be with Mrs. Foster Dise on Wood street.

* * *

OPENS HOME.

Mrs. William Nussbaum, 800 Andover road, was hostess yesterday to members of the Neighborhood Bible club when Mrs. George Hoover conducted the brief business meeting, and led the devotions. Mrs. Jay Swigart presented the lesson to the 11 members. Mrs. C. H. Henkel, Woodhill road, will entertain Nov. 15.

* * *

NINE ATTEND.

Nine members of the Priscillian club gathered at the Women's Club yesterday afternoon for a luncheon at 1 o'clock. White chrysanthemums centered the table. Mrs. L. H. Beam was hostess for the meeting, and current events were presented during the afternoon. Mrs. Sidney L. Palmer will entertain the group at the Women's Club on Nov. 15.

* * *

MATRONS MEET.

Women of the Past Matrons association met at the Masonic temple yesterday with Mrs. Ruby Dye, Mrs. Ida Troll, and Mrs. Ethel McIntyre serving as hostesses. The 13 members and one guest spent the afternoon socially. Luncheon was served, and Thanksgiving appointments were used. The next meeting will be held Dec. 6 with Mrs. Miriam Gross, and the Misses Lenora Horn and Thelma Hursh as hostesses.

Church Interests Fill Calendar For Several Units

There were 17 members and four guests of Gamma Mu Sigma present last night when the Misses Ruth and Edith Swaidner entertained. Mrs. Dorris Ruark led the First Christian church missionary group in devotions, and the topic for study was "Refugees."

Those taking part were Mrs. Glenn Heldenbrand, Mrs. Adam Takos, Mrs. Rolland Flowers, Miss Lois Laubscher, and Miss Geraldine Marlow. Refreshments were served from a table decorated with Halloween appointments. Mrs. Bruce Rogers, West Fourth street, will entertain Dec. 6.

* * *

Mrs. Lucinda Gipe, who was 83 Thursday, was surprised last night when 15 members of the Ladies' Bible class of the Mayflower Congregational church gathered at the home of Mrs. William Yager, 621 Springmill street, for the regular session. Guests were Mrs. Sam Gipe, Mrs. Norman Yager, Norman and Bill Yager.

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. F. B. Poling, and the program was in charge of Mrs. Bessie Sheets and Mrs. Della Stull. Readings were given by Mrs. O. B. Grandon, Miss Grace Finical, Mrs. C. A. Cole, Mrs. H. A. Rudolph, Mrs. A. E. Fankhauser, Mrs. A. Rust and Mrs. Stull.

Contests followed, and prizes were won by Mrs. Grandon and Mrs. Cole. The honoree was presented with a gift by the group, after which refreshments were served. Miss Finical will entertain at her home, 424 Springmill street, Dec. 6. This will be a Christmas exchange. Associate hostesses will be Mrs. George Brooks and Mrs. Carrie Boyer.

* * *

A covered-dish luncheon was an event of yesterday noon for 12 members and two guests of Class 27 of the First Christian church in the church parlors. Following the singing of the class song, Mrs. W. J. Tappan led the devotions and a prayer.

During the program, Mrs. Frank Brannon sang two selections, Mrs. Jessie Rhoads gave a reading, and Mrs. Tappan reported on a recent convention in Millersburg. A business session was held, and the next meeting has been scheduled for Nov. 29.

* * *

Mrs. Foster Diehl was hostess for a meeting of the Lucretia Hedges Missionary society, Unit No. 5 of the First Methodist church, last evening at her home on Douglas avenue. Mrs. Minnie Grabler and Mrs. Katherine DeYarmon were the hostess' assistants.

Mrs. Clara Parker led the devotions, and Miss Ethel Hughes had charge of the program. Miss Evangeline Williams sang two songs, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. David Ireland. On Dec. 16 the members will have a meeting with the Grace guild at the church.

ROUTINE SESSION.

A routine business meeting was held last night at the Eagle hall by the Women's Auxiliary to the Fraternal Order of Eagles. Plans were made to attend a meeting in Galion next Thursday night. The next regular session will be held Nov. 15 at 7:30 p. m.

ART TREASURES TOPIC FOR CLUB DISCUSSION

Mrs. Frank Glasgow, Mrs. David Talbot Give Papers; Puritan Theme Carried Out In Decorations and Refreshments.

FOLLOWING the brief business meeting of the Art Study club yesterday afternoon at Wickliffe Manor, Park avenue west, Mrs. Frank Glasgow presented her paper, "Art In Forest Lawn Memorial Park, Glendale, Calif." As a recent visitor to the world famous cemetery, Mrs. Glasgow described the art treasures there, and told the club members that it contains America's greatest collection of marble statuary, and America's largest collection of stained glass.

There are more art reproductions in the park made directly from originals, than have been collected at any other spot, the speaker indicated, and described the Leonardo deVinci "Last Supper" which has been done in stained glass by Rosa Moretti. It is considered the world's greatest.

Mrs. David Talbot then gave the story of Thanksgiving, telling how the early settlers in America were greatful not only for the bountiful harvest, but the freedom they had gained. The speaker pointed out that America has again become the center for those seeking refuge from persecution.

Refreshments were served buffet style from a table quaintly decorated in keeping with the Thanksgiving theme, and the three hostesses, Mrs. Boyd Wierman, Mrs. Talbot and Mrs. Harvey Lanehart were attired in Puritan costumes.

The next meeting will be held Nov. 28 with Mrs. Fred Dippman, Mrs. Glasgow and Mrs. J. E. Fendrick as hostesses. Mrs. William Kuhn will have a paper entitled "Colonial Homes and Their Furnishings.

* * *

PLAN PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hannan, Olivesburg road, will celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary tomorrow with a family dinner in the pavilion at John's park. Open house for friends will be held from 2 until 4 o'clock in the afternoon at the same place.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

From the extension wire to my father's rooms came a command, crisp and terse.

'Admit her, but do not let anyone else come through the gate," he said. Then I heard his footsteps on the hall floor above, and in another minute he and Philip Veritzen came down the stairs together. The face of the great theatrical magnate was a picture of bewilderment.

"What on earth?" he exclaimed, and then my father opened the door, and Avis Arlen airly fluttered into the room.

At my first glimpse of her the fantastic suspicion which had been mine since Philip Veritzen told us his story became concrete.

She was the person whom Jack Leslie had planned to put inside the farmhouse, the person who, he had told Veritzen, was a friend whom he would recognize.

Lillian nodded a confirmation of my belief as her eyes met mine, but on Philip Veritzen's face there was an almost pathetic mixture of incredulity that the daughter of his old friends could be a sordid spy, and of conviction that, nevertheless, she had been sent by Leslie to gain a foothold in the farmhouse, and later to admit him and his gang.

Leslie's Spy?

Avis came fluttering up to me with her old saccharine fulsomeness, ignoring our last meeting when Miss Whitlock and I had ignominiously bound and gagged her in our suite while the hotel authorities were searching for her.

We had known then that she was spying upon Mary, but we had thought it was at the behest of Philip Veritzen and connected with the production of my play. And Veritzen virtually had admitted that he had used her in the "testing" of Mary. We had not dreamed, and I knew, looking at his face, neither had Veritzen, that the girl, almost too silly to be really evil, had any connection with Jack Leslie's monstrous plot against Mary, Noel and my father.

"Oh! Mrs. Graham!" she gurgled. "I know it is terrible of me to burst in upon you at this time of night, and I know you'll never, never forgive poor little me for so unpardonable an intrusion, but I just had to see Uncle Phil for a few minutes. He's my employer, you know, and something—"

Another Guest.

She turned away from me, and went up to the business associate of her dead father, the man, whom we knew, her widowed mother wished to marry.

"Dear Uncle Phil," she cooed. "Something terrible has happened at the office, and I thought it my duty to come and tell you. Could I see you alone, somewhere? It will only take a few minutes, and then I'll go away again."

My father broke into the conversation suavely, but with the flick of steel in his voice.

"Unfortunately, Miss Arlen," he said formally, "while we are glad to welcome you to the farmhouse for an indefinite stay, we cannot permit you to leave us. We are in a state of siege—Mr. Veritzen will explain it all to you—and anyone who enters the house must stay here."

"But my taxi," she expostulated, not too convincingly, however. "And I have no luggage."

"The taxi driver will be paid and told not to return," my father said inexorably, "and my daughter will equip you with everything you may need for your sojourn. Mr. Veritzen, I turn your unexpected guest over to you."

He bowed his adieu formally, and went back to his quarters while Avis looked after him with wide open eyes which anyone not knowing her would have sworn were startled and naive.

"How perfectly thrilling!" she said at last. "Luckily Mother won't worry. I told her I was going to spend the night at Mary Heathcote's place out near Hempstead, and they haven't a telephone, so she can't call me there. I knew she'd be worried if she thought I was coming away out here by myself."

Consideration for her mother was something new in Avis Arlen, I told myself grimly, even as Philip Veritzen, with gravely troubled face, spoke directly to me.

"Where can I take Miss Arlen for the conference she wishes?" he asked.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

"It's a shame about Honolulu!" Norma said, by way of reply to this. She looked pale this morning, last night's lip red still smeared on her mouth; her rich dark hair giving off a scent of tobacco smoke, her breath indicating that nobody last night had limited her as to liquor. "But of course we'd only have had a week there," she went on, "and Mama and I intended to stay for months, rent a beach place with lots of garden, or maybe buy one, and have parties! If I have a coming-out party Dad'll come down, and loads of yachts—the fun! Mama says it just suddenly occurred to her 'Why' here's my litle girl, the most interesting personality I ever knew, and I'm letting everyone else have the fun of her!' It seems a letter I wrote her—remember that funny letter I wrote the day I just felt funny—"

The stream this time was interrupted by the entrance of the countess, who also looked pasty of face and seemed weary in manner. A beautiful dressing gown trailed about her, her hair was in a tumbled disordered mass of curls.

"She really is beautiful," Jocelyn thought. Immediately she was under the spell of the cultured, lazy voice.

"Miss Britton, I'm so glad you came in. You had my check? And Sandy tells me you're going today. That's not hurrying you? I'm afraid I've upset your plans and Norma's for the Honolulu trip, but my little girl here has forgiven me and I know you will. I just got what I call 'Norma hungry,' and out I had to come to see her for myself. What I didn't realize was that I was going to find a little beauty for my daughter. Anyway, I'm going to give her just the best-est—bestest—"

Norma had gone to take one wing of her mother's chair as a seat and was cuddling up against her. The countess punctuated the last words with little bitelike kisses against the girl's cheek.

"Yes: she's going to have a happy summer," the countess pursued. "You know it never stops, down there. Dances, beach parties, fascinating men playing ukeleles. She's only seventeen, but that will make the girls of nineteen and twenty perfectly wild, and I think it might be fun! Darlin'," said the lady, rubbing her temple against Norma's, "you've not had a very good Mommy so far. But she's going to make it up to her little princess, who's going to have the happiest time of her life. But we mustn't keep Miss Britton, darling. Say goodbye and trot along and have your bath."

"Miss Britton," the countess went on, when she and Jocelyn were alone, "I want to explain this situation to you. You, of course, think of me as a frivolous, selfish woman who has neglected her child all these years. I haven't," Janet said, tears of maternal devotion in her eyes. "I've always tried to do what was best for Norma, for I've realized that she was an unusual and excitable child, and ought to have careful handling. Two years after I eloped—I divorced Captain Caverley because I knew he was a completely unfit father for Norma. As to Count von Sturnberg, he fell in love with the child long before he did with me. He simply followed that seven-year-old baby about like a slave. She adored him then. She hates him now, of course."

Jocelyn wondered contemptuously why they always had to justify themselves, deceive themselves. Janet must know in her heart that she had destroyed Norma's life, and that of Norma's father as well. But she was presently in tears of self-pity as she described effort after effort, sacrifice after sacrifice gladly made for her child, and so often futile.

"Spotty wrote me such a happy, funny letter about her Easter trip to Honolulu," Janet said. "It waked me up, suddenly, I mean it really did. I thought how affectionate and forgiving Mr. Fordyce always was, and that perhaps we might have a home together down there someday, in the islands, with Spotty. That's the way it ought to be, and that's the way I hope it will be. He worships Spotty, and Bert—his mother—tells me that he's never quite forgotten his bad Janet. So," she finished sweetly, "you understand, don't you? That we do appreciate your goodness to Spotty, and that you've perhaps done something to reunite a family that was just a little bit off the track. And now, I'm sorry, but I must run and dress."

That was all. Jocelyn was out in the hall again, with nothing to do but find a butler to carry her bags downstairs, and to follow them to the waiting car. She moved through her good-byes to the staff automatically, with a queer numbed feeling inside her, and as she drove away she seemed to be driving into a great void, in which nothing mattered.

With a last gesture of luxury she asked the man to drive her all the way to Sausalito, and descended at the gate of Maple Den shortly after one o'clock weary and dispirited and fighting a maddening impulse to cry. But five minutes in the household of the Partridges were enough to dissipate any self-pity, and to plunge her at once into the roaring life of the household. It appeared that in the middle of Tot's wedding plans for June, Ned Whitehouse, who had for several years been Sissy's beau, burst in upon the family only an hour earlier with the news that he had been promoted, that he was to be in charge of the Bakersfield office, and that he wanted eighteen-year-old Sissy.

This had thrown all six sisters into a very ecstacy of excitement, a mad readjustment of plans. Immediate efforts must now be transferred from Tots to Sissy, announcements must be sent to the papers: Sissy must notify the manager of the shoe store in which she worked that she was leaving at the end of the week.

Awakening babies were given their afternoon glasses of milk to an enthusiastic description of their aunt's plans. They were going to have an Uncle New in three weeks, how did they like that? Sissy dashed back to the store to pay what attention she might to afternoon sales.

It was decided that Sissy herself should tell her father, and as he came in, genial and weary from office hours, half an hour before Sissy did, there was a terrible thirty-minute interval in which all the girls were bursting with the great news, whispering in corners, and exploding into apparently causeless laughter at the slightest word from him.

Eventually Sissy was back, and in his arms, and all the others were gathered about to laugh and cry and exclaim over the youngest bride.

The old doctor kept his arm tight about his fourth daughter; now and then with his free hand he wiped his eyes. Jocelyn, looking at him, benign and gentle and wise, with blooming girls swarming all about him, kissing him, curled at his knee, hanging over the back of his chair, contrasted the parenthood in this shabby house with the other example she had so recently had a chance to study, and wondered once again if just too little money were not, after all, a better condition than much too much

SQUEEZING FOR EXTRAS

NOT ALL squeezes are made in slam contracts. Plenty of them are needed to make lower ones, or result in furnishing extra tricks above the contracts. Those extras sometimes determine the difference between an ordinary score and a top score in duplicate tournaments. Even such a thing as a "progressive squeeze" for two extra tricks develops upon rare occasions in modest-sized contracts.

A repeated or progressive squeeze furnished John J. Cummings a decided top on this deal in a New York tournament. West led the club 2 to East's J. Knowing his squeezes and seeing a chance for a possible progressive one, Mr. Cummings let East have that trick and took the next club. With nine tricks surely in sight, he wanted not one, but two extra tricks.

After East won the diamond 10 with the A and returned his last club, dummy tossing a spade, Mr. Cummings went to serious work on his plan. He took the club return with his A, cashed two diamonds and the spade K, then led the fourth diamond, tossing a heart from his own hand. West at this stage had two spades, three hearts and the high club. He had to shed one. Regardless of which he chose, it would build a trick for the declarer. He picked the club 10.

Mr. Cummings then came to his hand with the heart A and played the club 7. West was squeezed again, between his major doubletons. When he picked a heart, the dummy discarded a spade and took the last three tricks.

Your Week-End Lesson.

Do you understand the type of lead throwing and end-play whereby an opponent is obliged to play into a simple tenace? One whereby he must play into a combination tenace between the declarer's hand and dummy? Can you set up examples of them?

THREE GALION CHURCHES SET CENTENNIALS

Congregational Social Night Planned by Reformed and Evangelical Members.

GALION—Three churches in the vicinity are celebrating their 100th anniversary this month. They are First Reformed and Evangelical church of Galion, the Emanuel and Peace Reformed churches, rural churches near Galion.

Plans are being made for a congregational social night to be held in connection with the centennial celebration of the First Reformed and Evangelical church of Galion.

The party will take place in the social parlors of the church on Thursday evening, Nov. 7. G. M. Badgley will be master of ceremonies for the informal program which will include numbers by "old timers" of the congregation. The committee in charge of arrangements is composed of Mrs. C. F. Zimmerman, Mrs. H. F. Eichhorn, Oscar Hocker and Budd Lisle.

On Sunday morning, Rev. George W. Good of Upper Sandusky who is president of the Northwest Ohio Synod, will deliver the sermon at the morning worship. Both the Emanuel and Peace Reformed congregations have been invited to join with the local church for special services on the morning of Nov 10 when the sermon will be delivered by Dr. Charles E Schaeffer of Philadelphia, Pa., who is general secretary of the Board of Home Missions and former president of the General Synod. An evening service on Nov. 10 will bring the centennial observace to a close when Doctor Schaeffer will again deliver the sermon and prayer will be offered by Rev E B. Gunneman, pastor of the Emanuel and Peace Reformed churches

Special sermons have been delivered at the local church on Sunday, Oct. 20, by Dr. D. Burghalter of Tiffin who was pastor of the local church from 1903 to 1911, and by the church pastor, Rev R. R. Elliker, last Sunday, Oct 27.

Former ministers of the church who have been invited to the centennial service, but who are unable to come, are Rev. F. B Ruf, of Pontiac, Michigan and Rev. G. F. Zinn of Portland, Oregon.

INFANT CARE DISCUSSED AT NURSERY SCHOOL GATHERING

GALION—Vital problems pertaining to the first six years of a child's life were discussed at a meeting of the Nursery School Parents at the East school, Friday evening.

The district supervisor, Mrs Martha Agler of Columbus, was present to give a talk about the importance of the development of the child in the first six years, the contribution the nursery school can make in this important period of life, and why parent meetings are necessary.

The discussion that followed included particular problems of sleeping habits, food habits, the number of hours required by the young child, habits of relaxation, and why it is necessary for an afternoon nap.

Menus that have been used at the school for the past two weeks were also discussed.

At the close of the meeting there were social hours when refreshments were served by the local Nursery School Supervisor, Mrs. Sara Beegle, who was assisted by Mrs. Clarence Price.

TOMATO PARTY

Halloweeners Forced to Eat Vegetable 'Bombs.'

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—(UP)—Two patrolmen last night came upon an automobile filled with 'teen-aged youths and a box of juicy, ripe tomatoes, apparently the ingredients of a belated Halloween celebration The officers were especially interested in the tomatoes.

"They're for eating," protested the youths.

"Start eating," the officers ordered.

After half the box was gone, the boys gave up and negotiated a compromise. The officers took the tomatoes and the boys went home.

the commission in Pittsburgh yesterday.

Robison was also awarded disablement benefits of $200 and betterment benefits of $500 to be paid as needed for a worthy purpose to be approved by the executive committee of the Carnegie Hero Fund commission.

The commission has been awarding medals for heroic deeds since 1904, when a $5,000,000 fund was set up for that purpose by Andrew Carnegie, More than 35,000 applications have been passed over for careful consideration since that time.

Brutus C. Johnson, West Middleton, a CCC camp member at Mammoth Hot Springs, Wyo., was decorated for attempting to rescue William L. Nelson from suffocation June 26, 1939. Nelson had gone down into a 27-foot deep test hole and was overcome by sulphide gas. Johnson managed to bring him to the surface by climbing down a rope.

The two heroes were among 25 decorated by the Carnegie Hero Fund commission at its fall meeting at Pittsburgh. Two of the heroes died and two were injured.

HOLD INQUEST

Body of Woman Found Under Ohio River Bridge.

IRONTON — (INS) — Lawrence county Coroner W. Wilson Lynd today ordered an inquest in the death of Mrs. Ethel Wright, 33, whose body was found under the Ohio river bridge at Chesapeake early yesterday.

Deputy Sheriff Harry Shattuck said that a man was being held in connection with the death. The deputy quoted the suspect as saying that Mrs. Wright, dressed in a Halloween costume, followed him from a night club and that they quarreled while standing on the river bridge.

The suspect, however, said he left the woman standing on the bridge and went home. The body was found by George Morrison, former mayor of Chesapeake.

THEATERS

Myrna—Not 'Perfect Wife.'

Myrna Loy and Melvyn Douglas are co-starred in the hilarious comedy film "Third Finger, Left Hand," which opens today at the Ohio. She keeps Douglas in a constant dither as they fall in and out of comical complications. The trouble starts when she pretends to have a husband in a distant part of the world, for business reasons. Douglas learns of it and impersonates him which brings the situation to an alarming state for Myrna.

Timely Drama of London.

One of the highlights of the bill at the Madison is the timely feature "London Can Take It," which is a one-reel on-the-spot narration by Quentin Reynolds of Collier's magazine. The main feature is "City for Conquest," co-starring James Cagney and Ann Sheridan. It is the story of two people in love who are determined to climb out of the New York's slums and make a success of their lives. Second full feature is "Quarterback," the fastest, funniest football frolic, with Wayne Morris, Virginia Dale and Lillian Cornell in the leads.

* * *

First Run Film.

A first-run film in Mansfield is "21 Days Together," which comes Sunday to the Park, and co-stars Vivien Leigh and Laurence Olivier. It is an absorbing story of a boy and girl whose love for each other is stronger than the destiny which awaits them both. Sought by the police for murder, they find in their marriage of three weeks, happiness and despair, before surrendering themselves. Second attraction is "You Can't Fool Your Wife," with Lucille Ball and James Ellison in the leading roles.

* * *

Bennett and Raft.

Joan Bennett and George Raft are co-starred in the thrilling human drama, "The House Across the Bay," which comes to the Ritz. Lloyd Nolan plays the role of the villain. It is a moving story of love and loyalty. Second feature attraction is "The Boys From Syracuse," which is probably one of the funniest comedies of the year. The all-star cast is composed of Martha Raye, Joe Penner, Irene Hervey, Eric Blore, Charles Butterworth, Allan Jones, Rosemary Lane and Alan Mowbray.

Tiger Backs Run Wild In Second Half

Getz Gallops 52-Yards to Score Club's Third Marker In Fourth.

MASSILLON—(INS)—Massillon high school's terrible Tigers today had completed their domination of the Ohio scholastic football stage with a 28-0 victory over Toledo Waite's battling but outclassed Indians in the "dream game" which turned out to be a nightmare of rain and mud.

* * *

Before 22,000 rain-soaked but thrilled fans, the Tigers crushed the upstaters under a barrage of cut-backs and wide sweeps to mark up their 31st consecutive victory while blasting the 19-game winning streak piled up over three years by the Waite eleven.

* * *

The Tigers now turn their attention to something really important—and probably their most severe test since the 31-game streak got under way in 1937. On Nov. 16, the Massillonites will tangle with their old and bitter rival from Canton McKinley. McKinley is undefeated in seven starts with only a tie to blemish their record.

As usual, the Massillon eleven got the jump on their opponents last night and scored early on a blocked kick and a six-yard off tangle touchdown slash by Tom James, scintillating halfback who literally walked "on the water" that stood in pools on the field.

Again in the second period, Bucky Brown's boys blocked another punt but this time the leather rolled through the end zone for a safety to give the Tigers an 8-0 lead at half time. Waite failed to make a first down in the first half, in fact, the Indians marked up but one throughout the game. That came in the third quarter when Lou Sharkoff tossed a basketball pass to End Walker for a 14-yard advance.

The Tigers came roaring back in the third period to score once and then twice more in the final period as Waite threw caution to the winds in an attempt to dent the untouched Massillon goal line. The closest the Waiters came to the promised land was the 28-yard stripe and when that drive failed, the Toledo eleven was finished.

Massillon's second touchdown was scored on a 58-yard drive that followed the second half kickoff.

The same James knifed over Waite's left tackle and skated the remaining distance of 16 yards with Waite players trying desperately to bring him down.

The two final Tiger touchdowns were scored in the fourth quarter. Ray Getz electrified the crowd with a dazzling 48-yard sprint through the entire Waite team.

The blocking was magnificent. And then a few plays later, Waite passed from its own 8-yard line and big Horace Gillom intercepted on the 14. Getz crashed to the one-yard line from where Kingham drove over standing up. Getz place-kicked both points.

* * *

In other high school football games in the state, East Liverpool's six-game winning streak was cracked wide open by the "streak-breaking" Martins Ferry team by a 19-6 score. Just a week before the Ferry eleven downed Bellaire, 15-14, for that team's first defeat in seven starts.

* * *

Massillon Band Steals Portion of Grid Show

By CHARLES MARTIN
News-Journal Sports Editor.

MASSILLON — Massillon's mighty Tigers registered one of their most important triumphs of the season here last night—but the spectacular Massillon high band stole a portion of the show. . . .

* * *

Going through their paces with precision, the band put on one of its greatest shows—even on the rain-soaked gridiron. . . . First it marched down the field in quick-time. . . .

* * *

Then the lights were turned out and every member of the band wore either a red, white or blue light. . . . And with a large spotlight focused on the opposite side of the field the growth of the United State of America was depicted. . . .

* * *

First came the famous flagbearer, drummer and fife player to the tune of "Yankee Doodle Dandy." . . . Next three soldiers dressed in the army uniforms of the War of 1812. . . . It continued through the World war days and all assembled around the Statue of Liberty on the center of the field. . . .

It all ended up with fireworks and the band playing "God Bless America." . . . The 22,000 fans cheered for at least five minutes after the performance. . . . After the game the band returned to do its popular "swing-time" number.

* * *

Eyes were focused on the fleet Massillon backs, but the performance turned in by Horace Gillom, Massillon colored star, was brilliant. . . . The lanky end backed up the line on defense and was in on practically every tackle when a Waite back penetrated the hard-driving Tiger forward wall. . . .

Coach Paul Brown's club, which beat the Mansfield Tygers, 38 to 0, at Stadium field last week, ran off their plays like clock work. When Ray Getz galloped 52 yards on the first play of the fourth quarter his teammates blocked superbly to break him loose. . . .

Getz did some nice broken field running to get past the safety man . . . but he did it with yards to spare. . . .

Toledo, reported to possess a potent running attack, never got it working . . . For Massillon's linemen were through the Waite line by the time the back had the ball from center . . .

* * *

The field hampered the fleet Tiger backs . . . several times on run backs of punts and kickoffs the Massillon ball carrier looked like he was in the open only to slip and fall . . .

* * *

If the field had been dry the score might have been doubled . . . Fans, nearly half of them were on hand at 7 p. m. despite the rain, got a laugh before the game when a rabbit raced on the field at one end and galloped right down the sidelines disappearing under the bleachers at the other end . . .

* * *

Spectators were on hand for the game at 6 p. m. . . At least 500 people were crowding around the general admission office trying to purchase tickets . . .

Nearly 75 sports writers from Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania were on hand to watch the Tigers mark up their 31st win and keep their goal line uncrossed . .

When Massillon blocked the first punt in the initial quarter, three of the Tiger backs were in on the punter . . . Massillon employed a seven-man line and had the three backs directly behind to rush through . . .

Toledo had a heavy line, but it still couldn't stop the bonecrushing drives of the Massillon backs . . . Waite marked up just one first down—in the third period on a short pass over the center of the line . . .

Herbert Snider, Toledo's right end, was the defensive star of his team . . . He tossed the Massillon players for losses numerous times . . . John Baker, Waite's, 236-pound quarterback, was stopped cold on offense, but held his own on backing up the line . . .

Find "No Evidence" That Snavely Coached From Bench

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Ohio State university was told today that there was "no evidence" that Coach Carl Snavely of Cornell coached the big red team from the bench during last Saturday's Cornell-Ohio State football game, which Ohio lost, 21 to 7.

* * *

In a letter to L. W. St. John, Ohio athletic director who made the accusation, Asa Bushnell, executive director of the central office for eastern intercollegiate athletics, stated that "the reports of the officials include no evidence of coaching from the sidelines."

"In light, however, of your observations," the letter said, "I am writing to the four officials to ask specifically for their further views in the matter."

Bushnell, who pointed out that his delay to St. John's letter was due to his confinement in a hospital with a broken arm, added that he was "glad that a copy of your letter went to Mr. James Lynah, Cornell's director of athletics, for he will in all likelihood wish to help complete the record in this episode by filing with the association an answer to the charges.

* * *

St. John made the protest following the Cornell game, declaring that the signaling from the Cornell bench was "so obvious that our players often knew where the Cornell play was going."

* * *

He said that Coach Francis A. Schmidt of Ohio State had asked the officials before the game to watch for any signaling, which scouts had reported "was carried on" at the Ithaca, N. Y. school.

Overlin Gets Verdict Over Belloise In Garden Bout

NEW YORK —(AP)— Slim young Steve Belloise still doesn't own a single one of the various middleweight boxing titles, but the boy from the Bronx staged a claim on one in his losing fight against Wily Ken Overlin in the Garden last night.

For a 21-year-old engaging in only his 33rd bout, Steve made a great showing against the veteran who holds the 160-pound crown (New York and California variety, and the crowd of 13,000 rewarded him by booing the verdict for a good five minutes.

* * *

Students Courteous —Team Considerate

* * *

Good seats are scarce in the antiquated Clemson stadium and for two consecutive years the students consented to sit in the end zones for the big games with Wake Forest so that Mr. and Mrs. Public might have the best seats.

* * *

Last year the Tigers beat Wake Forest 20 to 7 and scored all their touchdowns on the students' end of the field. This year, routing Wake Forest 39 to 0, the Tigers scored four of their six touchdowns in the student body's lap.

LORAIN LOSES

CLEVELAND —(INS)— Trevor Rees' Shaw high school football team had its first Lake Erie league title within reach today after defeating Lorain 7 to 0 in a night game at Shaw stadium.

Grid Captains Recalls "Iron Men"

* * *

Ebenezer E. Mockett, captain of the university's first team in 1890, recalled that the squad had only one substitute "and he didn't get to play very often."

* * *

The next year there was NO substitute, and "if a man got hurt we played with 10 men, or nine men." Now a resident of Lincoln, Mockett sees the Huskers play every fall.

HARRIERS BATTLE

DELAWARE —(INS)— Eighteen high school cross-country track teams will battle it out today in the 13th annual Ohio meet at Delaware. The field includes Akron North, Springfield and Toledo Libbey.

Open Boxing Classes For Settlement Boys

Boxing classes for boys at the Friendly House will open Monday at the Phoenix Hotel, according to an announcement today by Mike Wentz, boys' director at the settlement. Classes for novice boys and those who have had no boxing experience will be held Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 6:30 to 7:30 p. m., and an open boys class, those who have boxed, will be held on the same days from 7:30 to 9 p. m. John Eichinger will act as instructor.

De Sales Lifts Grid Lid With 31-0 Win

(By Associated Press)

DE SALES college of Toledo romped to an easy 31-0 victory over Grand Rapids (Mich.) college last night to open Ohio's collegiate football week-end.

* * *

Two touchdowns in the first, one in the second and two more in the final period were counted by the Sailors as they halted all Michigan scoring threats.

* * *

Meanwhile, Ohio's undefeated colleges were preparing to guard their records against strong opposition today. Kent State, sitting atop the Ohio conference with six straight wins, plays a Bowling Green eleven that may provide the upset.

Heidelberg, Ohio conference leader, steps outside league competition to take on undefeated Bethany of West Virginia.

Other conference games carded for today: Wittenberg and Oberlin at Springfield; Wilberforce and Lincoln at Xenia; Otterbein at Marietta; Denison at Wooster; John Carroll at Toledo; Ohio Northern at Muskingum; and Baldwin Wallace at Case.

Other state games: Carnegie State at Cincinnati, Ohio university at Miami, Youngstown at Akron, Kenyon at Rochester, Defiance at Manchester, Hiram at Mount Union, Ashland at Bluffton, Findlay at Ithaca, Valparaiso at Capital, Ohio Wesleyan at Xavier, Pennsylvania at Dayton, and Boston university at Western Reserve.

DANVILLE WINS OVER BUTLER HIGH 20 TO 6

Butler high school bowed before a strong Danville high football team 20 to 6 in a contest played Thursday afternoon at Danville.

Butler's lone touchdown came in the third period as the result of an 80-yard run by Jack Wilson. Danville scored once in the first and twice in the final quarter, two by Miller on passes and one by Mizer on a line plunge. Both teams made six first downs.

BOWLING SCORES

Bowling with the 1420-B team in the Westinghouse D league, Lacer scored a total of 591, with individual games of 210, 174 and 207.

Stars To See Action

Bucher, Dials Among Players In Supplies' Lineup For Tilt Sunday.

By CHARLES MARTIN

A TEAM composed almost entirely of erstwhile Mansfield and Madison high school football players make up the Automotive Supply semi-pro machine which faces the touted Columbus Avondale Athletic club gridders at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at the Fairground.

* * *

Among the group are Gaylord Bucher, All-Ohio scholastic guard in 1937; Elmer Dials, lanky end, who was selected on the second All-Ohio squad the same year, Clayton Luckie, Vern Heiser, Ed Zediker, Al Schwaner and Harper Au.

* * *

All these lads saw action with the Mansfield Tygers. Bucher and Dials were teammates of Johnny Hallabrin, Ohio State university fullback, when the Tygers held Massillon to a 6-6 tie in 1937.

Luckie, an end, Vern Heiser, quarterback, Zediker, lineman and Al Schwaner, another back, all were outstanding while attending Mansfield high.

Another player familiar to Mansfield grid fans will also perform for the Supplies Sunday. He is Kenny Lockhart, former Madison high ace, who holds down a halfback position.

While the Supplies' record this season isn't impressive from a won and lost standpoint, the club is one of the best Earl McMullen ever coached.

"This team is better balanced than the club I coached last year," McMullen stated today. "Last season we played weaker teams and were able to come through with several victories.

"We have been playing some of the best semi-pro outfits in the state and our running attack failed us until we met the Sandusky Maroons."

The Supplies clicked off two touchdown drives in the first eight minutes to register a 14 to 6 win over the Sandusky outfit last Sunday.

McMullen has spent most of the week brushing up the aggregation's passing and running attack and believes they will work Sunday.

Mansfield played the Akron Awnings, Minerva, Carrollton and McKeesport, Pa., and the best the club could do was gain a 6-6 deadlock with Carrollton, one of the powers in the eastern section of the state.

That the Supplies face a difficult task against the Capital City team is shown in the visiting team's record. The Avondale machine has waded through Columbus teams with ease and has clinched a place in the playoffs for the Columbus semi-pro championship.

MOVEMENTS ARE SHOW IN STOCK MART DEALINGS

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Price movements were narrow in today's early stock market dealings but plus signs predominated.

Interpreted as constructive marketwise was the federal reserve board summary estimating department store sales for the nation, in the week ended Oct. 26, exceeded the aggregate in the corresponding period a year ago by 6 per cent. A similar year-to-year increase was shown in the preceding week.

At the same time attention was given a compilation by the commerce department indicating United States exports of iron and steel (scrap excepted) in September were off 7.7 per cent in quantity and 6 per cent in value from August.

BERLIN CAUGHT BY EARLY RAID

Theater Crowds Forced Into Shelters by British Surprise Visit.

Evidence was accumulating that the British navy, "the silent service," was preparing a big Mediterranean offensive.

Newspapers displayed under big headlines reports that British naval officers had arrived at Athens and at unidentified Greek islands to organize Britain's aid to Greece.

Usually well informed London sources talked of secret fleet movements which would soon result in a dramatic blow against Italy.

"Operations by the British fleet which are expected to lead to a large scale offensive against the Italians are now in progress," said the Daily Sketch, quoting well informed naval circles. "Secret moves which for obvious reasons can not be disclosed are being made off Greece."

Axis Raiders Driven Back

LONDON —(U.P.)— One hundred German and Italian planes seeking to break through the British defense barrage to bomb London were driven back in scattered disorder today after a dramatic one hour fight over southeast England.

Witnesses reported seeing at least five Italian Fiat planes power dive to hardly more than 200 feet above the ground to escape British fighter planes which raced into the Axis fleet and, machine guns, spitting, broke it up.

With anti-aircraft guns firing at such of the Axis planes as were not closely engaged by fighters, the British and Axis aviators fought for position in intricate maneuvers until, thwarted, the formations broken and British planes on their tails, the Axis planes fled for the channel.

German planes, reinforced by Italian ones, stepped up the pace of their attack and two air raid alarms were sounded in London during the forenoon. There were morning daylight raids also in the Liverpool area near two northeast English coast towns.

There were three German raids on London during the night but there was little bombing.

Though a limited number of planes took part in the attack, five of them were shot down by anti-aircraft guns—the most successful night for the anti-aircraft gun defense since the war started. Eleven German planes had been shot down yesterday. Seven British planes were lost but pilots of two of them landed safely.

Vote For JOSEPH JAMESON
For STATE SENATOR

Republican
From An Editorial Lorain Journal Feb. 11, 1935

"Joseph Jameson, who retires as postmaster after 12 years, was recognized as one of the most efficient postmasters in the service and conducted the postoffice with as much economy and as conscientiously as if it were his private business. In fact, the chief criticism of him was that he was not sufficiently complacement or tolerant of shortcomings in others to be in public office. "Generally, Jameson was credited with getting more for each dollar of expenditure than the average."
